BLAZING PLANE SEEN FALLING OFF NEWPORT

Pastors Seek to Block Race Track at Hansen

MAKE APPEAL FOR DENIAL OF PERMIT

Orange and Santa Ana Ministerial Unions Take Up Cudgels

There's a bumpy track ahead for promoters of a proposed $120,000 horse racing establishment at Hansen.

Ministers in Santa Ana and Orange today announced they have devised a couple of hurdles for sponsors of the plan to surmount.

Dr. George Warner of the Santa Ana Ministerial union has been instructed to draw a resolution opposing granting of the application for a racing schedule at the proposed Hansen track. The resolution will be forwarded to the state racing commission.

Letter Sent
At Orange the ministers already have sent a letter to the commission protesting against approval of the application. The motion for this action was made by Dr. Robert B. McAulay, pastor of the Orange Presbyterian church. The letter was forwarded by J. B. Wilbur, secretary.

The Rev. William R. Holder, president of the Orange union, has announced he will ask assistance of other groups to keep the track out of Orange county, if necessary.

Chamber Survey
In 1935 a committee representing the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce made a survey of merchants in towns adjacent to Santa Ana. A majority of the committee was convinced that these merchants did not approve of the track from a business standpoint.

It was reported that these merchants felt their employees spent too much time following the horses and that their customers spent money in betting that otherwise would have been used to pay their bills at stores.

Favorable Report
At the same time another group, independent of the chamber of commerce, made a similar survey. This group reported merchants were in favor of the track, as a business asset.

The Orange County Fair, Inc., is the name of the organization seeking a permit for the Hansen track, with a 14-day racing schedule. Backers of the scheme are C. M. Rood, H. H. McVicar, M. M. McCullen and C. D. Cather. The application was filed through Attorney John Martell.

Board Awards Blind Contract

A blind contract was awarded by the school board last night. After advertising for bids on Venetian blinds for use in Block "B" at the high school, but one bid was received. This was from the National Venetian Blind company of Los Angeles. The bid was for $859.40 and the contract was awarded to the company.

Parents Protest Fence Barbs

Barbs on the fence at the Spurgeon school are "scratching" parents of children who go there.

In fact, these stickers are getting under their skin.

They don't think the board of education ought to subject climbing youngsters to being hung up by the seats of their pants on these prickles.

And what if the barbs should go deeper?

A petition by the Spurgeon Parent-Teacher association was presented to the board last night, characterizing the fence as "unfinished" and "dangerous."

It was recalled that one boy had been seriously injured when climbing the fence, because of the barbs. The board was asked to remedy the situation.

The board let it be known it thinks the barbs are a mighty fine thing for growing boys and girls. In fact, Business Manager George Newcom explained that

Tots Tip Gin Jug

Three little boys—two 12, one 14—

They decided to get drunk. They'd seen big fellows do it. They thought it looked like he-man fun.

So they hitch-hiked to Santa Ana from their Anaheim homes, stole a bottle of liquor from Sontag's Drug store, and sneaked into an alley, where they drank it.

A few minutes later they were on their way to the county hospital in a police car, where they repented—and waited for their families.

They told a wild story of a man picking them up and forcing them to drink from a bottle of whisky, then throwing them out of the car.

This morning they couldn't remember their story. They couldn't remember any fun either.

Their parents promised police that old-fashioned methods of correction would be invoked. And the boys will report every week to Anaheim police for the next 10 weeks.

2 BURIED BY AVALANCHE

DENVER. (AP)—A snow avalanche, roaring off the Continental divide, may have killed and entombed two Denver businessmen-skiers, lost on an outing, a friend feared today as he led ski-equipped searchers through zero weather over bleak two-mile high country hunting them.

The men, missing since Sunday at Berthoud pass, 60 miles west of here, are Joseph Oppenheimer, 36, secretary of an automobile appliance firm, and John S. Oberdorfer, 22, bookkeeper for the same company.

"Three big snowslides tore down the western side of the mountain after they headed that way," said the friend, Theodore A. Grossman, advertising man, who accompanied them on the trip, but separated from them.

Truce Holds Up Dock Blockade

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A truce until tomorrow halted a threatened blockade of the Long Beach docks here by the teamsters' union, but organizers continued to halt "non-union" trucks throughout the harbor area in their membership campaign.

Matson line officials refused to admit the organizers to its terminal. The truce was called at the suggestion of Harry Bridges, coast president of I. L. A., in an effort to reach a peaceable settlement.

those barbs didn't get there by accident. They were stuck there purposely. The board has gone into this thing in a big way. The city's schools have 5400 feet of such fencing.

The barbs are supposed to be a warning to children not to climb fences. They are warned personally not to do it anyway.

If the fences were barbed at the top, it was said, children might climb clear to the top and fall over on the hard cement walks. The board then might be placed in the position of being negligent. This theory holds it is better for the youngster to be suspended by the seat of his trousers than to lack suspension and hit his head on the sidewalk.

But the parents still felt scratchy about it, so Board Member Ridley Smith suggested some P-T-A member come in and see if discussion of the problem might not solve the situation somewhat.

COURT PLAN ARGUED BY COMMITTEE

One Change Wins Favor: Robinson Urges Age Of Retiring at 75

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The house judiciary committee approved today a measure to authorize the attorney general to participate in lower court cases between private parties where a constitutional question is involved.

The bill—sponsored by Chairman Sumners (D., Tex.) of the committee—embodies one of the principal proposals in President Roosevelt's broad court reorganization program.

No action was taken today on the other proposals.

Offers Age Change
Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, advocated today a change in the retirement age of judges under the President's program from 70 to 75 years.

Emphasizing that he was speaking for himself only, and not the entire judiciary, Robinson told newspapermen, "I am inclined to think the age had better be 75 than 70."

The measure approved by the committee was amended to give the attorney general the right to appeal an adverse decision in district courts directly to the supreme court for immediate hearing.

Private litigants involved in such cases would not have the right of a direct appeal, however. They would be required to go to the circuit court of appeals.

May Debate Tomorrow
Sumners said it was possible that a previously approved bill setting up a voluntary retirement plan for supreme court justices might be called up for debate and passage in the house tomorrow.

Under the Robinson plan, 50 members of the supreme court would be affected immediately, instead of six. However, two more, including Chief Justice Hughes, would come within range of the program in the next few months.

SOVIETS START ARCTIC HOP

MOSCOW. (AP)—Chief Pilot F. B. Fahrigh, Russia's most experienced Arctic flier, took off today on a projected 12,500-mile flight to explore the transpolar route between Moscow and Alaska.

With a crew of five and three passengers, he lifted the huge Soviet plane, U. S. S. R.—N120, from the Central airport to start the first complete circuit of the Far North ever undertaken in winter.

Fahrigh will test the new plane under severe flying conditions, in the Arctic and deliver supplies and mail.

Other funds provided in the bill are: Civilian Conservation Corps, $85,000,000; 1937 seed loans, $50,000,000; miscellaneous, $16,000,000.

Figures don't lie! Last year Santa Ana and Orange county merchants did the biggest business in their history.

Optimistic estimates on the return of prosperity became a certainty today when figures from the state board of equalization showed a 40 per cent increase in total retail sales in Santa Ana in 1936 over 1935.

The balance of the county also rode on the wave of prosperity during the past year. Total retail sales in the county amounted to about $51,181,762.10 in 1936 as compared with $38,208,000 in 1935.

Figures show that Santa Ana does about 44 per cent of the total business in the county. Some sources believe the figure is higher. At 44 per cent, in 1936 Santa Ana enjoyed $22,519,975.28 worth of business, as compared with $15,717,000 in 1935.

Increase Shown
During the first quarter of 1936 Orange county merchants paid $268,117.92 in retail sales taxes on a 3 per cent basis. The second quarter totaled $308,030.90, the third $318,379.81. Figures on the last quarter were not official, but were conservatively estimated at $360,000. This made a total sales tax of $1,254,528.63.

The figures revealed that Orange county as a whole did $12,973,762.10 more business in 1936 than in 1935. Santa Ana merchants took in $6,802,975.28 more last year than in the previous year, an increase of 40 per cent.

State board of equalization officials have not yet prepared a breakdown in the 1936 figures to show the amount of sales made by various types of business. However, the 1935 figures from the retail trade statistics in the department of commerce, bureau of census, show the ratio.

Other Cities
In 1935, 2124 establishments in the county did $38,208,000 worth of business, which represented a 50 per cent increase over 1933. In Santa Ana, 597 stores had retail sales totaling $15,717,000. Other districts figures were: Anaheim, 213 stores, $5,118,000; Fullerton, 192 stores, $4,251,000; Orange, 141 stores, $2,248,000; Huntington Beach, 86 stores, $1,197,000; remainder of the county, 895 stores, $9,677,000.

The total food business done in 1935 amounted to $9,650,000. Automobile sales totaled $7,932,000 and lumber, building and hardware amounted to $3,287,000.

F.D.R. SIGNS U.S. RELIEF BILL
WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt signed the $500,000,000 relief-deficiency bill today. It carries $789,000,000 intended to keep at least 2,580,000 persons of WPA jobs until the winter of 1937.

Other funds provided in the bill are: Civilian Conservation Corps, $85,000,000; 1937 seed loans, $50,000,000; miscellaneous, $16,000,000.

Vallejo Wife, Just 13, Says Bride, 9, Is Too Young VALLEJO. (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Mrs. Florence Hill Rudd, who expects to become a mother in April, thinks 9-year-old Mrs. Eunice Johns of Tennessee is too young for marriage.

"Why, she's just a baby," declared the blue-eyed Mrs. Rudd, who married William Rudd, Vallejo lumber company employee, last Sept. 14—three days after her thirteenth birthday.

"That little girl," she added, "won't know anything about marriage for years and years."

"But," insisted the blue-eyed Mrs. Rudd, "I think it's all right for me to be married. I haven't played with dolls for a long time."

She and her 22-year-old husband both said they expected their baby in April.

The child wife's mother, Mrs. Hilda M. Hill, who consented to her daughter's marriage at Carson City, Nev., declared she considered the couple's affairs "no-body's business."

She however, like her daughter, thinks the nine-year-old Tennessee wife is too young. Mrs. Rudd said she told the Carson City license clerk she was 16.

Spanish Rebels Cut Off Madrid From Coast Base

EARLY FALL OF CAPITAL PREDICTED

Starvation Now Faces Defenders; Line of Supplies Severed

WITH FASCISTS, OUTSIDE MADRID. (AP)—Spanish insurgents captured the vital highway to the coast today, cutting off the capital's defenders from both their government and source of supplies at Valencia.

The fascists occupied the strategic line of communication, about 10 miles southeast of the city, after a bloody three-day battle waged in intermittent rain and snow.

(An earlier, heavily censored dispatch from Madrid reported the Socialist militia men had repelled a second insurgent attempt to capture the highway.)

Movement Important
A combined army of legionnaires and Moors stormed into the trenches abandoned by the Socialists who left a battle field strewn with dead.

The successful operation, while less spectacular than the capture of Malaga on the south coast, was considered of greater importance.

The severing of the communication line was confidently expected by the Fascist commanders to make the plight of Madrid's defenders even more desperate by starvation.

Fall of Madrid Seen
Unofficial observers said the two simultaneous victories would quite likely mean the fall of Madrid.

The extension of the line which now hems in Madrid on three sides was expected to facilitate the complete encirclement of the capital and the eventual success of a new smashing offensive against the city.

Gen. Emilio Mola, insurgent commander on the Madrid front, predicted "an early final victory."

REBELS CONVERT MALAGA INTO BASE
MALAGA, Spain. (AP)—The Fascist conquerors of Malaga worked swiftly today to convert this Mediterranean port into a naval base from which they could threaten the whole eastern seaboard of Socialist Spain.

They said the defeated defenders of the city blamed their collapse on the lack of sea and land support from the Valencia government.

Valley Still Is Imperiled
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Pounding waves and ponderous crests sustained flood peril along the Mississippi today but strained levees held and the Red Cross began mapping rehabilitation plans for the valley.

Winds up to 38 miles an hour out of the northwest rolled combers against the sturdy dikes, but army engineers reported no major damage and, with the peaks past Memphis, reiterated belief the worst was over.

Fire Menaces 300 WPA Women
Three hundred women in the WPA sewing project were endangered yesterday afternoon when a fire broke out in the back room of the W. P. Fuller Paint company store at Fourth and Van Ness streets.

The blaze was quickly extinguished, without loss. Fire equipment answered the alarm at 2:03 p. m.

Rossmore Hotel Fire Is Mystery
Fire in a second-floor room of the Rossmore hotel this morning caused damage estimated at $30 to clothing and $10 to the room before city firemen extinguished the blaze.

Firemen said they were unable to determine definitely the cause of the blaze, but believed a match or cigaret in a waste basket might have started it.

ROAD REPAIR WORK BEGUN

Will Spend $130,000 on Highways in This County

The state highway department today prepared to spend about $130,000 for repair and correction of highway damage in Orange county.

It was learned today by The Journal that the state highway department will take measures to correct conditions which brought about tieup of traffic from Orange county to San Diego.

State highway officials said today that the highway along the coast, where the major trouble came as a result of the week-end flood, will be raised to prevent a recurrence of the disaster. Improvements will be made at the Galvan pass, which was washed out just above Capistrano, and at Bear creek, south of Galvan.

Detours were completed today to permit travel of light traffic through Orange county to San Diego. Any type of vehicle can travel from the Orange county line to San Diego, but heavy vehicles going to San Diego must go through Riverside from here to reach San Diego.

Postmaster Frank Harwood of Santa Ana expressed the hope that mails here can be put back on regular schedule by tomorrow. Santa Ana isn't getting much mail yet, he said. This city received no mail from Saturday at 3 p. m. until yesterday at 7 a. m. Mail was expected on a noon train today.

ASK GRAPEFRUIT FREIGHT CUT
WASHINGTON. (AP)—Railroad representatives took under advisement today a proposed 50 per cent reduction in grapefruit rates as a means of solving the citrus industry's overproduction crisis.

At the conclusion of a three-hour hearing, F. M. Cleveland, vice president of the Association of American Railroads, promised an early decision.

Gov. Fred P. Cone of Florida and the citrus industry requested the temporary rate cut after unofficial estimates placed this year's Florida crop at 17,500,000 boxes of grapefruit, the largest ever recorded.

Two Texas growers, John N. Hager and D. Cott of Weslaco, said a crisis exists also in their area.

Windsor May Buy Estate in Hungary
VIENNA. (AP)—The Duke of Windsor has indicated a desire to purchase an estate in Hungary into which he can move during May, a Vienna real estate agent said today.

Authoritative reports yesterday said the former British monarch was considering marrying Mrs. Wallis Simpson in Hungary because the Hungarian attitude toward divorce and remarriage is more liberal than in Austria. Mrs. Simpson has been divorced twice. Previous reports said the marriage date likely would be April 27.—The exact date Mrs. Simpson's divorce from Ernest Aldrich Simpson probably will become final.

SEARCH OVER WIDE AREA LAUNCHED

Scout Official, Police Officer Witness Air Disaster Today

BULLETIN
Harbormaster Thomas Bouchee returned to Newport harbor at 1 p. m. today with word that no trace of the missing craft had been located. Smith Brothers' salvage tug, after going nearly to Catalina Island, reported no trace of the ship was seen.

A hastily mobilized fleet of rescue boats scoured the sea off Newport at noon today in search of a plane reported to have fallen in flames, shortly after 10 a. m.

Coast guard cutters were steaming to the scene, salvage tugs stood by, and Harbormaster Thomas Bouchee's speedy launch was circling a wide area where the craft was reported down.

Was Headed South
Several persons in the Newport harbor area reported seeing the plane burst suddenly into flames and plummet into the water.

The dive was said to have occurred about 10 miles off shore, too far to ascertain the type of plane. It was believed to have been heading south.

Harrison C. White, county Boy Scout executive, was first to call police with the report of the mishap.

Continue Search
Chief of Police R. R. Hodgkinson, Newport Beach, also witnessed the falling craft. Officer Jess Kennedy was a witness.

No trace of the craft had been found at noon, although the search was to be continued in the hope debris could be sighted or some evidence of the air craft could be located.

TOWNSEND SAYS NOT GUILTY
WASHINGTON. (AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend pleaded innocent today in federal district court to a charge of contempt of the house. His trial was set for Feb. 23.

The charge was placed against the old age pension organization head because he walked out of a house hearing on pensions last year and refused to return and resume his testimony.

His arraignment took only a few minutes. Clad in a neat brown suit, he stepped to the bar of the court, entered his not guilty plea and departed after arranging for continuance of his $1000 bond.

Townsend was in a gay mood. As he left the courtroom he told reporters:

"Well, I may have to transfer my work to a cell in jail, but I don't know but what that would be an improvement because I certainly would have fewer interruptions."

SURVEY PLAN TIN CAN TOURISTS GATHER FOR JAYSEE BUILDING

Water Bond Election to Get Precedence Over School Project

Wheels of the machinery expected to grind out a bond election on a new junior college plant for Santa Ana moved officially today for the first time.

They started rolling after the board of education acted on a petition from 22 representative business and professional people and authorized Chairman George Wells to name a committee from the board to gather data on the proposed project.

Water Vote First

But the wheels rolled slowly. The board indicated last night that it will not call a bond election for a junior college plant until after Orange county has held its bond election to provide the county's share of the $15,000,000 flood control problem.

The motion authorizing appointment of the committee carried with it a provision that the special board committee be empowered to employ the services of an expert in gathering statistics on a new junior college plant.

Suggests Stanford Man

Supt. Frank A. Henderson suggested the name of Dr. William M. Proctor of Stanford as the expert consultant. Dr. Proctor is on the national advisory board of the National Junior College Journal and is considered an expert on junior colleges.

The committee from the board will ask the committee of 22, which represents every service club, fraternal group and civic organization unofficially, to name a smaller group to work with the board committee in gathering the statistics.

Lose $6000 Annually

Henderson said the local school system is losing about $6000 a year because Huntington Beach students are going to Long Beach instead of Santa Ana Junior college. There were 69 students in the Santa Ana Jaysee from the beach city last year. This year there are but 10. The condition is caused partly by the lack of transportation facilities, Henderson said.

Enrollment at the local Jaysee has dropped from 749 in 1932-33 to 609 today. Four years ago enrollment at Santa Ana Junior college was 850. At Fullerton Junior college it was 550. This year Santa Ana has little more than 600, while at Fullerton the enrollment is 925.

College an Asset

A statement from Director D. K. Hammond of the junior college showed that the junior college is a decided financial asset to the community. Statistics he prepared showed that there are 280 students in the local Jaysee who were fully recommended and who are taking regular college transfer courses. If these students were sent away to college, it was estimated, the costs would run from $58,600 to $115,000 annually more to their parents.

Aside from those taking the regular college liberal arts and pre-professional courses, there are about 125 students taking merchandising, secretarial, pre-nursing and vocational courses which would have to be taken in other institutions if they were not offered here, at an expense of $50 to $250 for tuition, the report showed. Estimating $100 as the average, the amount thus saved the community is $12,500 annually, it was shown.

Attracts Families

If it is estimated that the families known to locate here because of junior college facilities spend only $100 a month, it means that from $12,000 to $15,000 extra money is coming into Santa Ana annually, Hammond's figures showed.

His figures on enrollment of graduates from surrounding high schools showed a general decline. The comparative figures given below are: first, the enrollment in 1932-33 from high school indicated, and second, the enrollment the first semester of 1936-37. They are as follows:

Orange 100, 76; Anaheim 32, 15; Tustin and Laguna Beach 67, 57; Garden Grove 34, 21; Newport Harbor 12, 14; Huntington Beach 65, 10; Capistrano 9, 7.

It was announced today that the committee from the board of education which will work with the citizen's committee will consist of President George Wells of the board, Dr. Margaret Baker, board member, Director D. K. Hammond of the college, and Superintendent Frank A. Henderson.

Man Killed in Theater Scuffle

KANSAS CITY, (AP)—Angry voices and sounds of a scuffle in the back of an all-night theater distracted patrons watching a wild western picture Saturday. A man staggered to the lobby, collapsed and died.

In his pockets, police found a card bearing the name of Harry Clifford, Leavenworth, Kans. A small cut on his nose was the only mark of violence, police said. An autopsy was ordered.

A man and a woman had hurriedly left the theater shortly before the dying man was noticed. Police sought to trace them.

Dog Leads His Drunken Master to Police Station

SEATTLE, (AP)—A dog that led his master into the police station, where the man was booked "intoxicated," was sent the pound for 10 days when the master, Jack Raito, 59, was sentenced to the city jail yesterday.

Raito told Police Judge William R. Bell he got drunk Sunday and took his dog for a walk. About noon the dog stroled into the police station, Raito following.

"He got me into hot water, but he's still a good dog," Raito said.

ESQUIVEL CASE NEARS JURY

If Jesus Esquivel, accused of murdering Salvador Lopez here in 1929, is found guilty of manslaughter, he will go free, Deputy District Attorney James E. Davis revealed today.

In argument before the jury in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court, Davis asked the jury to return a verdict of guilty of murder. Because of the lapse of time, a manslaughter charge would be outlawed, Davis said.

Countering the defense interposed by Roland Thompson and Robert Gardner, attorneys for Esquivel, Davis contended that bullet found in the side of a house at the scene of the shooting were fired by Esquivel. Thompson contended they had been fired by Lopez.

The case probably will go to the jury late this afternoon.

Two Mexicans from Tia Juana, called by Davis yesterday afternoon, declared that Esquivel had been in that city from 1929 to 1934.

Esquivel had testified that he lived at Martinez, near San Francisco during the seven years.

STRIKE PEACE ANSWERS NEAR

DETROIT, (AP)—Renewed hopes for an agreement ending the widespread strike shutdowns in General Motors automotive plants found expression today during a recess in the peace conferences of opposing leaders here.

An authoritative source indicated that the negotiations in last night's extended conference had found what they believed might be the answer to the dispute between the gigantic corporation and striking members of the United Automobile Workers of America.

He added that President Roosevelt, reported at the White House, have talked Sunday night to Gov. Frank Murphy, William S. Knudsen, General Motors vice president, and John L. Lewis, strike generalissimo participating in the conference here, has made no "demand" on either side, except to express his desire for an agreement.

Wendel Kidnaping Trial Under Way

NEW YORK, (AP)—District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan, opening the state's case against three of five men accused of kidnaping Paul S. Wendel, former Trenton, N. J., lawyer, today described Ellis H. Parker, Burlington county, New Jersey, chief of detectives, as "the brains of the plot."

Wendel sat directly behind the three defendants, Murray Bleefeld, Martin Schlossman and Harry Weiss.

Geoghan outlined the "fantastic scheme" through which, he said, Wendel was forced to make a confession, later repudiated, that he kidnaped the Lindbergh baby.

CHINA ADVANCE TOLD ROTARY

China is making rapid moral and economic progress under the great leadership of Dictator Chiang Kai-shek, and now the only problem which looks bad is that of Japanese exploitation.

Such was the message brought to local Rotarians today from across the Pacific by Dr. Brewer Eddy, chairman of the American board of the Congregational church.

Dr. Eddy will speak at 7:30 to-night at the First Congregational church here. He is a brother of Sherwood Eddy, the internationally famous author.

A polite hint from the four leading nations that they would stop buying Japanese goods would be sufficient to make the islanders reverse their military operations on the Asiatic continent, he said, suggesting that it would not be bad policy for the United States to take the lead in this movement.

Carl Newman, head of the Calavo Growers association, told fellow club members that the ranchers would take their losses with "chins up," and would stand by the law that only good fruit go to market.

FLOOD VICTIMS SEEK HELP

Supervisors this morning heard sad tales of flood damage from citizens, and were to hear another disheartening report from A. A. Beard, superintendent of highways, this afternoon.

Beard indicated he will ask more road funds in order to repair flood and rain damage to county roads.

Attorney Thomas McFadden, Anaheim, presented a $197 claim against the county for Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Celaya, whose home on York highway was flooded.

The claim was denied, on grounds that the situation was created by a state highway.

Sidney Yates asked diversion of a stream which flowed through his ranch at Crescent street and Manchester boulevard, west of Anaheim.

Mrs. F. C. Muller asked assistance in having the state highway department open drainage across Garfield street at Seventeenth street to relieve flooding of her property.

PROBE CRUELTY TO STUDENTS

LYNN, Mass. (AP)—Lynn's school committee called on Principal Walter I. Piper today to answer a 12-year-old student's charge that Piper jabbed him six times with a needle as a punishment.

Young Amanda Gallo said another boy told the principal Gallo had stuck the needle into him a half dozen times. Gallo said Piper thereupon ordered a similar punishment for him.

Last night nearly 15 pupils, supported by their parents, told the committee that teachers used fists on them and bumped their heads against walls to enforce discipline.

RESUME SCHOOL FIGHT TODAY

An attempt to return to the Placentia unified school district portions of the Yorba and Richfield districts, withdrawn by action of the board of supervisors Dec. 29, had only a slim chance today following two hasty court actions and a stormy session before the board of supervisors today.

With tomorrow the last day on which the board may act as school boundary changes, supervisors voted three to two to meet tomorrow at 2 p. m. for a hearing on the proposed reversal of their action.

As they met, they were served with writs issued by Presiding Superior Judge H. G. Ames yesterday afternoon, prohibiting the hearing, scheduled for today. The writ was secured by A. E. Roddie.

Deputy District Attorney Preston Turner today secured another order from Judge Ames, calling a court hearing for 10 a. m. tomorrow, at which Turner will ask that the writ of prohibition be quashed.

Refund Sought For Veterans

Congressman Harry R. Shepard announced today he will seek to right a wrong suffered by veterans.

He said that he will submit a bill in congress next week which will right a wrong caused by a technicality in the veterans' adjustment compensation act of 1936.

The act provides that no interest need be paid on loans received from adjusted service certificates. The act, it was said, overlooked the fact that many veterans had repaid interest, thereby placing a penalty upon the veterans who had met this obligation.

"Inasmuch as the act eliminates interest payments I am of the opinion that refunds should be made to veterans who met their interest obligations on loans," the congressman said.

Rubinoff Wins in Heart Balm Suit

NEW YORK, (AP)—A mistrial was declared yesterday by State Supreme Court Justice Salvatore A. Cotillo in the $100,000 breach of promise action of blonde Peggy Garcia, former Polles girl, against David Rubinoff, radio and concert violinist.

The mistrial was precipitated during opening statements to the jury when Abraham J. Halpern, Rubinoff's attorney, declared evidence in the defendant's possession would show "Polles the legitimate passed a law to outlaw cases of this kind."

Miss Garcia alleges that Rubinoff asked her to become his wife in April, 1933, while she was a hat check girl at a Harlem Night club. The violinist denies even knowing Miss Garcia.

ENGLAND FACES HUGE FLOODS

LONDON, (AP)—The worst floods in a quarter of a century were predicted today as steadily rising rivers, spurred by unceasing rains, submerged wider sections of England and France.

More heavy rain was forecast in both countries. Swollen rivers drove inhabitants from their homes in lowlands, and, in some places, flood tides rose in city streets to the rooftops of dwellings.

Parts of 13 counties in Southern England were flooded. Thousands of acres of farming land were inundated and large numbers of householders were forced to flee their homes along several stretches of the Thames river.

Northern France and Normandy were hardest hit. The Seine river recorded crests eight feet above normal and rose persistently.

CANTON, Ga. (AP)—Two men, brandishing a machine gun, forced chain gang guards yesterday to release S. J. (Slim) Scarborough, figure in a hitch-hike murder case in 1925.

The gunmen appeared nine miles east of Canton, where the convicts were working on a highway under two guards, and leveled the weapon at the guards. Scarborough leaped into their machine and they sped away.

SKATES OUT OF TROUBLE BROWNE SAYS WAR SURE TO COME

A La Habra housewife saved herself from the unwelcome attentions of a housebreaker last night. She used a roller skate.

And she didn't use the skate to escape with, either. She slugged the prowler with it, then called police.

They booked William L. Garrison, 42, of San Mateo, on charges of vagrancy and violation of the county drunk ordinance.

The housewife, Mrs. W. C. Newcomb, told police she first heard Garrison at 10:40 p. m., when he tried to come in the front door. Then he rattled at the back door, pounded on the side of the house and began cursing.

As a last resort he broke the front window and started in. Mrs. Newcomb met him with the roller skate.

He told police he was a salesman—presumably entering the Newcomb home in line of business.

WOMEN'S CLUB APPEALS LESLIE RANCH CASE

With her husband dead, Mrs. Catherine L. Leslie of Santa Ana today started action to recover the famous Leslie ranch, foreclosed by the Federal Finance company shortly before Christmas.

Through her attorneys she gave notice that she will appeal the decision of Superior Judge G. K. Scovel to the state supreme court.

In a dramatic court battle, the finance company refused to accept a cash payment from J. Roy Smith, Capistrano orange grower and capitalist, for the finance company's mortgage, after expiration of the redemption period.

Smith appeared as a buyer of the property on the final day, Dec. 10, but the deal fell through when the Orange County Title company was unable to deliver Smith's money to the finance company because Smith at that time asked a policy of title insurance.

Leslie died last month.

Yesterday the board of directors met and canvassed the vote of Feb. 2. No change was found in election results. Directors William Mauerhan, C. Roy Browning and Frank Champion were re-elected.

The board will meet on March 2 to organize and elect officers. Willis Warner, Huntington Beach, served as chairman of the board since organization of the water district.

How to EASE a COLD FOR 15¢

1. Instead of buying costly medicines to relieve the discomforts of a cold, try the way almost any doctor you ask will approve as the modern way—genuine BAYER ASPIRIN. It now costs only 15¢ for a dozen tablets, or two full dozen for a quarter.

2. The way you use it is this: Two BAYER tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on, taken with a full glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions in package. If at the same time, throat is sore, gargle with three Bayer tablets in 1/2 glass water for almost instant relief. Bayer Aspirin acts to fight fever, and the aches and pains of a cold. Relief comes quickly. Ask your druggist for genuine BAYER ASPIRIN by its full name—not the name "aspirin" alone.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS ARE 'HUSKIES'

Tuberculosis Surveys Show Fewer Cases Than Average

Santa Ana High school students are above the average in health. This was shown in a report to the board of education last night by Dr. Byron F. Mock, director of health of Santa Ana city schools. The report showed that Santa Ana High school has a low percentage of 14.1 in incidence of tuberculosis, in comparison to the general state average of 27 to 33 per cent.

Survey Made
 A comprehensive survey in regard to tuberculosis incidence in the high school has just been completed, it was reported. Hereafter all surveys have been conducted among children of a much lower age level than high school students.

Results of the tests given showed 251 negative reactions and 42 positive reactions. Four repeat tests will be done by the county health department. Permission for the tests was obtained from parents whose children were tested.

Parents Contacted
 Following recording of the data, the school nurse is visiting the homes of those showing positive reactions. She discusses with parents the necessity of further investigation of the condition of the students, advising them to have thorough X-ray studies and clinical examinations of the chests to determine whether the case is active or healed.

It is explained that the majority of the cases are probably healed childhood tuberculosis and that early examination and care is the most important factor in control and cure of the disease.

FORTY BILLS AID FARMS

Officials of the Orange County Farm bureau today were studying various state legislative proposals affecting agriculture.

R. J. McFadden, Placentia, state delegate and chairman of the county Farm bureau legislative committee, received word today from R. W. Blackburn, president of the California Farm Bureau federation, that 40 bills have been introduced in the legislature to cover the legislative program of the state bureau for 1937.

Designed to protect and enhance the state's farming enterprises on all sides, the new legislation sought by the state Farm bureau covers a wide scope of special aids to agriculture in fields of education, marketing, transportation, production improvements, financing, regulation, relation to industry and labor and social welfare.

Honest Autoist Was in a Hurry

An honest motorist, in a hurry, crashed into the parked car of Stanley Peterson, route 4, box 271, last night while it was parked on Main street, between Walnut and First.

Peterson returned to his car to find it partially wrecked. A license number was written on a piece of paper attached to the steering wheel.

Investigation disclosed the license was issued to C. J. Godding, Concord.

Column Left -By- PAUL WRIGHT

Fifty-three miles away, Ocean-side nevertheless is becoming a rather good source for Santa Ana Jaycee athletic material.

Three of the southern preps are here to enroll this semester with the Dons—Jim Samuels, guard and halfback; Larry Sherwood, who competes in track, baseball and football; and Bob Martin, guard in football.

Danny Boyd, hustling under-study to Bob Holmes at center on the Dons' 1936 championship eleven, hails from Oceanside, too.

You can huddle around your radio and follow the nags around the Santa Ana track during both the $50,000 added Derby Feb. 22 and the $100,000 added Handicap Feb. 27. . . . For the first time, the coast racing features are going to be broadcast on three transcontinental hook-ups—Clem McCarthy for the N. B. C., Joe Hernandez for Columbia and Bryan Field for Mutual. . . . Both events will be on the air between 4:10 and 4:20 p. m.

Note to the Dons: You should have an easier time in your return basketball game with San Bernardino on the Braves' floor Feb. 17. Lisle Bresslin, the sharp-shooting forward who helped defeat you in the first round, has become ineligible because as a mid-termer he was graduated Friday night.

Joe Louis' lack-luster decision over Bob Pastor served two ends, comments Joe Williams who covered the 10-round waltz for the New York World-Telegram. "It confirmed the authenticity of Schmeling's victory over Louis, and it added greatly to the belief that any time Jim Braddock steps into the ring against Louis the announcer at the finish will say, 'The winner and still champion.'"

Because Braddock is so much superior to the preliminary boy, meaning Pastor, who brought Louis back to the preliminary stage himself that words are useless."

Sam Lockhart, all-Coast Prep league guard, may have no successor as Santa captain in basketball. . . . Sam made an ideal leader, but frequently the prep athletes do not use such good judgment. They allow club politics to swing most of the elections. The boy with the most athletic ability and leadership frequently is overlooked.

Incidentally, Bill Foote won't elect a football captain for the same reason. He probably will appoint a leader for each game.

Spinning the sports wheel: Lefty Grove, 36-year-old Boston Red Sox southpaw who won 17 and lost 12 last season with a 2.81 earned run average, is conditioning himself for spring training in Sarasota, Fla., by pedaling a stationary bike in Philadelphia. . . . Clara Mortensen, 20-year-old girl wrestler, says she fears, more than anything, the possibility of developing cauliflower ears. . . . Charlie Kurtsinger, who can still ride at 106 pounds or less, has been booting home winners since 1924. At present, he is the leading jockey at Hialeah park in Miami. . . . Ernie Quigley, supervisor of National league umpires, served as a "guesser" for almost 25 years.

DITTMAR SIGNS WITH ANGELS

LOS ANGELES. (P)—Carl Dittmar, utility infielder and coach, and Glenn Russell, also an infielder, have signed 1937 contracts with the Los Angeles Coast league baseball club.

A kingfisher perched on a goal-post viewed a football game at Hastings, New Zealand, until a well-kicked ball drove the bird away.

New Phoenix Coach

Larry Roubie, star guard on Stanford university's "vowing sophomore" eleven of 1933-35, has accepted the Phoenix (Ariz.) Union High school football coaching job that "Slingin' Sam" Baugh, Texas Christian university quarterback, declined because he could not get more than a one-year contract. Roubie is now assistant freshman coach at Stanford. (Associated Press photo.)

J. C. Conference Fails to Sponsor Rugby

DON FIFTEEN PLANNING TO FREE LANCE

Butterworth Hopes to Schedule S. C. Frosh Ruggers Next Week

Rugby competition in the Eastern J. C. conference of which the Dons are a member blew sky-high today.

Returning from a tour of the six jaycees comprising the league yesterday, Coaches Ernest Butterworth and Bill Cook stated that after conference with the athletic departments of these institutions it appeared very doubtful if a circuit could be formed.

In most instances it was a lack of someone who would be able to handle the coaching of the English sport. All reacted favorably toward the game and said perhaps interest could be aroused in the physical education classes.

At the annual conference meeting following spring competition, attempts will be renewed to see what can be done about drawing up a schedule for next year. Each coach was in favor of considering the rugby sport at that time.

TROJAN, BEAR FIVES PLAY IN NORTH

LOS ANGELES. — Ready to start on the second half of their conference schedule after a week-end of non-league games, 13 University of Southern California basketballers will leave Thursday night for Berkeley, where on Friday and Saturday nights they will meet the California Bears. The Trojans defeated Loyola 32-23 and lost to the Laemle All-Stars 39-38 in non-conference contests last week-end.

Southern California recently defeated California in a pair of thrillers here, the scores being 41-37 and 35-34, and the games this week in Berkeley will end Trojan-Bear basketball competition for the year.

With Bill Remsen, regular guard, probably out of the series as a result of a shoulder joint injury sustained in a recent S. C. Stanford game, Coach Sam Barry plans to start Hal Dornaise, former reserve center, at a defensive position.

Jerry Gracin and Wayne Garrison will open their regular forward berths. The former, after failing to score much in recent conference games, appeared to get back his shooting eye in the practice contests of last week.

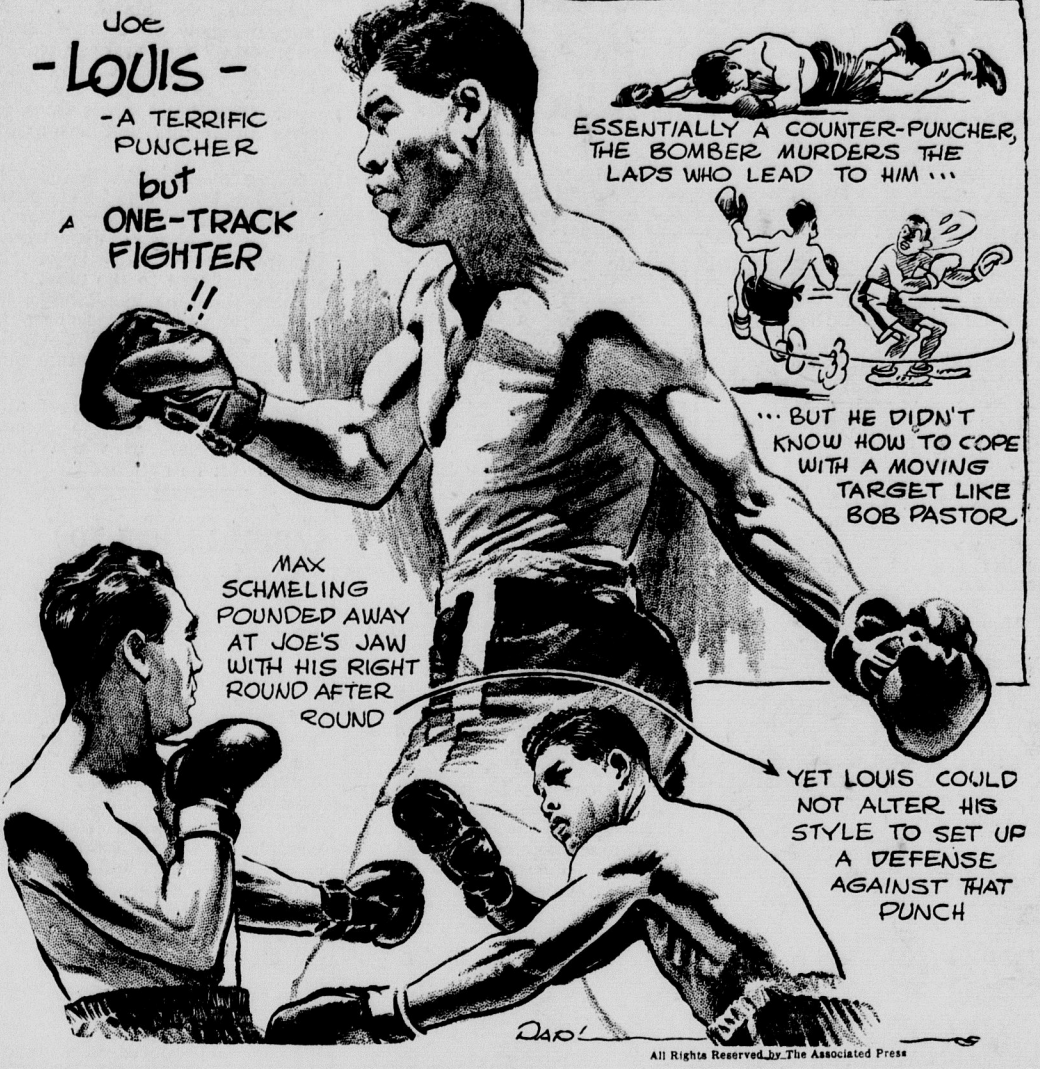

Carl (Buttercup) Anderson, high scorer for S. C. in the first Trojan-Bear series, will open at center, with Eddie Oram, captain and all-coast guard, teaming with Dornaise on defense.

Trojans who will make the trip northward are Gracin, Garrison, Clem Ruh, Gal Goodrich and Al Bukvich, forwards; Anderson and John Kewak, centers; Oram, Dornaise, Remsen, John Palsee, Bob Dale and Dean Olson, guards; Coach Barry and Student Manager Harry Shackleton.

Looking Louis Over —By Pap

Morgan Whips Three On Mat, Saves Beard

Big Ben Morgan (as advertised) still wears his whiskers today. Last night he squashed three burly opponents in a total elapsed time of 44:03 minutes to save his chin appendages from the barber's attention.

Irish Jack McArthur, Tiny Roebuck and Casey Berger fell before the hillbilly, who insists he's a wrestler and not a hillbilly. His method is simplicity itself—catch 'em and crush 'em.

This 300-pound behemoth has no need of wrestling cunning. He uses his muscles instead.

McArthur was first to fall, when Morgan downed him in 15:46 with an old-fashioned bear hug. Casey Berger climbed into the ring, survived 20:15 minutes of a tough battle, lost by means of a body press.

Tiny Roebuck followed, and was doing right well. Unfortunately,

JAMES RIDES 243 WINNERS Jockey May Break '36 Mark

LOS ANGELES. (P)—Basil James, 17-year-old son of a rodeo bronco-buster and trained to ride on the rough and tumble "bush" tracks of the west, was America's outstanding jockey in 1936.

A skinny little kid with a timid smile and eyes as cold and grey as a man of 40, James had a leg up on 243 winners last year. He won them the hard way, and is cocky and confident he'll do as well this year. Perhaps he will; maybe he won't.

James works at the jockey trade. It is the business he learned; the only thing he knows. Recreations? "I don't guess I have any, except riding," he said seriously. "That's about all I have time for."

Interviewing the youngster is one of those clipped "Yes, No" affairs. He is not unfriendly, merely non-talkative. He reaches the track around 10 o'clock in the morning, gallops a mount or so, and retires to the jockey room. It is locked at noon. After the day's racing, he rests.

"I don't get to play around much—haven't time," he said.

Mention the criticism, and there was plenty of the way he rode many a winner to victory, and James' eyes grew a little chillier.

"I've had a few disqualifications," he explained. "So have some others. You gotta take the bitter with the sweet."

Track observers have said James' riding at times is perfection in artistry, as witness the day last spring at Tanforan when he rode Indian Brown to a new world's record of 1:47.3 for a mile and an eighth, breaking Discovery's time of 1:48.1.

At other times, so the critics say, James' work in the saddle is more like a county fair. He had hardly ridden his first horse at Santa Anita this year before the stewards slapped a $100 fine on him for cutting across the field at the start. He was disqualified five times at Bay Meadows, and fined up in the hundreds.

"Let 'em say all they want. It doesn't bother me," James exclaimed. "We all get a little rough now and then."

Asked what his greatest thrill on the track was, he replied promptly:

Don Cagers Drill At Tustin For Fullerton Game

Santa Ana Jaycee's basketball varsity will hit the road for the second consecutive week tomorrow night to play Fullerton's leading Hornets there in what will be a delayed debut of the second-round schedule.

Riding on the crest of a two-game winning streak, the local casaba squad will find it tough going against the title-bound Yellowjackets. Art Nunam's boys last night to play Fullerton's leading Hornets there in what will be a delayed debut of the second-round schedule.

The local squad was divided yesterday, with the major division of Ken Nissley, Bob Browning, Ken Marshall, Harry Stanley, Vernon Rutledge and Charley Barrett going to Tustin for a scrimmage with Ralph (Bill) Cole's Farmers, minor division champions of the Orange league.

BRADDOCK AND LOUIS MAY SIGN CONTRACTS FEB. 13

CHICAGO. (P)—Closeups and long shots of the heavyweight title bout whirl:

Merry-go-round. . . . Reports were current today that Champion James J. Braddock and Challenger Joe Louis will get together next Saturday to sign articles for a 15-round bout June 15 at Soldier Field. . . . But a skeptical hotel chef who had one lavishly planned luncheon fizzle out on him swears he's going to wait until he sees Braddock and Louis in person before he'll prepare another. . . .

Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, will meet tomorrow with the mayor's Centennial celebration committee, which hopes to make a heavy-weight bout the big attraction on the city's charter jubilee program next summer. . . . Indicating there is little to reports that some Chicago citizens look with disfavor on the prospect of a bout in which Mike Jacobs of New York would be co-promoter with the Illinois Sporting club. . . .

The Chicago park board, which controls Soldier Field, met today to consider the request of Sheldon Clark, who offered Braddock $500,000 to meet Louis, for a conference on real terms. . . . The customary fee is 15 per cent of the gate, but a concession is likely in view of the ultimatum—No Soldier Field, no fight. . . .

You pay your money and you take your choice. . . . One Chicago paper insists articles already have been signed and that any meeting between the principals will be for the benefit of cameramen. . . . And says that the match will be June 22 at Comiskey Park, home of the

Greschner Fails To Enroll at Junior College

Bill Greschner, captain-elect of Santa Ana Jaycee's track varsity, and Eastern all-conference quarterback in football, has failed to enroll with the Dons for the new semester.

Conflicts in three major courses are said to have made him consider passing up college this semester. He would return here next spring for track, a sport in which he shines in the shot put and high hurdles.

Greschner has been offered a scholarship at Stanford university, but may not accept it until next year, it was learned.

MAY REVISE NIGHTBALL

Eight-Team Setup Seen For Nationals; Wentz Calls League Meet

Possibility of an eight-team setup for the National Nightball league was hinted in official quarters today, as President Walter Wentz prepared to call a meeting of business managers and club officials for the Blue Bird cafe in Garden Grove at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night.

The meeting will be called primarily to elect new officers, but discussion of an eight-team league probably will be renewed, it was said.

Predictions were made that Anaheim would return to its old regime under Vic Ruedy and strictly "home talent," and Bill Feistner, who managed the business affairs of the Valencia, last summer, would take over a new franchise in Long Beach.

An eighth club would be added under this setup for competition with Huntington Beach's champions, Santa Ana Orange Westminister, Olive, Anaheim and Long Beach.

There were other reports that Feistner would sign Louie Neva, nightball's premier pitcher, who has been released by Huntington Beach, and build a new Anaheim club. Neva's release has been received by President Wentz.

Charley Comstock, crack shortstop of the Anaheim Islanders, also has been granted a release. Wentz said.

MATCHMAKER OF ONTARIO IS SIGNED

Bouts to Be Conducted Every Thursday; Pros Will Not Appear

By BOB GUILD

Boxing comes back to Orange county March 4.

Promoter Sam Sampson announced last night only technicalities stand in the way of resumption of hostilities at the Highway 101 arena, featuring the simon-pure gladiators only.

A new deal with George Stewart, matchmaker at the Ontario club, was completed last night.

Stewart will make all matches here, as well as in Ontario. He announced he has signed a number of clubs in Los Angeles, Riverside, Ontario and San Bernardino to send boys here in the future.

Matches will be held every Thursday, as in the past. Bob Singleton will act as timekeeper, and Tige Clinton will be keeper of the publicity.

There has been no boxing at the highway arena since Singleton ended his tenure as promoter in the well-known old fold. Lack of new names, suitable matches or good club fighters spelled Singleton's doom.

Sampson always has enjoyed moderate success at the highway battle box, with wrestling slightly outwarring the leatherpushers. He believes presence of Stewart as matchmaker will mean success this year.

Until this week Promoter Sam was toying with the idea of presenting professional sluggers to the county. He had gone so far as to make application for a joint license, the paid-to-play boys to function every two weeks, or once a month, with amateurs on the other Thursdays.

The boxing commission frowned on the idea, with the result amateurs will return to the county ring wars. The date—March 4.

F. J. C. SWIMMING SCHEDULE ONE OF BEST ON COAST

Facing one of the toughest seasons of competition of any college or university on the coast, Fullerton Junior college will present a most attractive schedule to its squad of 12 potential champions.

With their season scheduled to start Feb. 18, the aqua-Hornets will go as far north as San Jose state, Stanford, and California, whom they meet on successive days from March 4 to the sixth. In the Southland they will have swimfests with Occidental, Southern California, Los Angeles and Compton Jaycees. The swimmers won't hang up their trunks till May 15 when they vie for the Southern California championships.

Coach Jimmy Smith has once more a crop of swim stars led by Diver Chapman. In a recent relay passed by the student board, swimming, which has been considered in the past to be the real major sport of the jaycee, was officially placed in the new division.

Bryan Grant, of tennis fame, comes from a family of net stars. His father, in his day, was rated one of the South's best doubles players. A brother, Berry, won the southern intercollegiate title some years ago.

For Rosemont and Time Supply the promised fast track afforded opportunity to renew a duel started last year at Santa Anita when Rosemont triumphed in a six-furlong race, then trailed Time Supply as the latter ran second to Top Row in the $100,000 handicap.

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

THERE are things and things, but this radio scare business at Newport Beach is about the best. Folks there are hopping mad—and one can't blame 'em much.

How'd you like to be roused out of a warm bed on a stormy night and informed the dam had burst? Huh, how'd that feel? Do you wonder there's so upset that breakfast still don't taste right, and the family dog's still taking considerable of a beating?

It seems that, about 10 o'clock Saturday night, when the storm still was storming and beds almost were floating out of front doors, that a L. A. radio station started the alarm. Newport harbor was about to be swept off the map. Scram, you guys, and get your families to safety, before you're swept into the ocean!

Anxious folks spent the night huddled before their radios, waiting the final word to leave their homes. Others, wiser in the topography of their community, said "Phooey" and went back to bed.

The mystery of the foolish, not to say highly exaggerated and ill-timed announcement, was explained in Santa Ana today, where it was discovered that some agency or other in our steam-heated metropolis was figuring out what'd happen to Orange county on a map.

Here's the way they figured—the river was rising, fast. Newport, it seemed, was right in the path of the flood. They'd better warn the sleeping harborites, or else they'd be drowned in their beds—and it must be most uncomfortable to be drowned in your bed!

The only trouble with their reasoning was the fact they were looking at a 50-year-old map—maybe older. It still showed the Santa Ana river emptying, in part, into the bay. That, admitted, would bring a large volume of water into the harbor—but, as someone explained, the harbor has a dam good drainage system!

Think Harry Welch'd better send out some modern maps!

Sergeant John Gregory at Fullerton still informs me, in all seriousness, there's going to be an "awful big" feed at the annual Ike Walton dinner in Hillcrest park tomorrow night.

He also claims there won't be any bag limit on the turkeys which we'll eat, so anyone looking for a real feed had better hunt up the nearest Izaak Waltoneer and see if he has a ticket left!

Incidentally, B. K. Maxwell, Fullerton publicity expert who works on The News Tribune in between each annual President's birthday celebration, is angry.

He protests, loudly, that he's going to strangle me with his bare hands for giving him a boost as the leading publicity light for the affair, because now he's sure Billy Stedman, who always has charge of the dance, will make him do the work again next year. I still refuse to apologize. He did the best publicity job of any of 'em!

Ed Ainsworth, state editor for the L. A. Times, is going to speak Friday night at the annual meeting of Pop Hale's Placencia Chamber of Commerce.

I'm afraid to go, because the last time I heard Ed was in the yacht club at Newport, the building almost burned down.

I'm warning Placentians right now—he'll probably be expecting entertainment of that sort every place he goes from now on. Maybe they can turn loose a herd of wild elephants!

No foolin', everyone who attends that annual meeting, which is in the Round Table clubhouse, will hear a mighty fine talk. Ed won't make 'em cry, but I'll guarantee he'll make 'em giggle!

If Vernier Beck were around, I'd have him write a Sermon for Chubbins about this young fellow, but seein' as he isn't, I'll merely have to tell you about him.

He's Lynn Thomas of Midway City, 20 years old his last birthday, and well on the road to success.

Lynn started fooling around with model airplanes at a very tender age. Liked 'em. He started winning prizes 'n things with his models. After only two years of high school, he wrote an article and offered it to an aviation magazine. They snapped it up and asked for more.

So he wrote another and another. Sorta got into the habit, and now the aviation publishers're virtually hanging on his coat-tails, asking for more.

How're there for some titles for articles written by a 20-year-old youngster: "Corrosion of Aircraft Metals"; "Modern Airfoil Sections"; "Wing Flutter and Excessive Vibrations" and "Use of Metals in Aircraft."

Right now he's on the way home from Honolulu, where he was marooned by the maritime strike. He'll be back any day, according to his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Thomas and his uncle, E. L. Hensley, Midway City.

I made a model airplane once. I wonder—?

NEWPORT CHAMBER TO BACK HUGE YACHTING PROGRAM

IMPROVEMENT OF WHARVES PLANNED

Active Year Slated By Board; Boat Show to Be Feature

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—Organization of a regatta association to act as a central committee for all yachting activities on Newport Bay was underway today following consideration of the plan at a meeting of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce directors Monday noon.

Initiated by Comm. Albert Soland, the scheme immediately was advanced by appointment of himself and Capt. William J. Brown as representatives of the chamber to meet with other harbor bodies, and to invite other bodies to appoint two delegates each to make up the membership of the regatta group.

Pier Improvement
Betterment of fishing facilities on both Newport and Balboa piers will be presented to the city council at an early meeting by the fishing committee of the chamber. The committee, of which Heinz Restrooms, places at which to clean fish, new landing steps and many added improvements were suggested in a letter from Hugh McMillan, well-known fishing writer at Newport Beach. The fishing committee, of which Heinz Kaiser and Charles F. Dennison are heads, will confer with the proper authorities as a result.

Indorsement of the request of the associated chambers for so-called "fishing docks" in the west Orange coastline was given, and President Theodore Robins authorized to appoint a special committee to study the need for trailer camp facilities in the vicinity of the harbor. Efforts to have additional fishing docks in the west extension of the bay near the Newport viaduct were ordered referred to the harbor committee for study and report at the next session of the directors.

Boat Show Planned
On recommendation of Hubbard Howe, the finance committee will be asked to budget $1000 in the coming year's expenses to provide funds for a model boat show to open with the fall session of school and the display to be made in the early summer next year. The delay in holding the model show was suggested in order that students be allowed the maximum of time in which to construct models for entry in the affair.

Reports on tax proposals before the present session of the legislature were referred to Dr. Howard Seager, chairman of committee on legislation and taxation, for report at a future meeting, together with a proposal of a policy for the conduct of the directors' meetings on matters presented.

Supervisor N. E. West was a guest, and told of the harbor control bill now before the state legislature, and promised to meet with the local interests and discuss the measure with them.

Mrs. Rogers obtained consent for a clerk to read her resolution to the house. The measure would call on Speaker Bankhead to name a five-man committee to report back to the house whether:

1. House members who have passed the age of 70 and a half years and thus date back to the "horse and buggy days" are incapable of performing their duties and passing upon the constitutionality of legislation.

2. Whether they should be given associates to help them out.

THE PURPLE ARROW

By MILDRED SNOW GLEASON

Frances Haven, American girl, has been living, for eight years, on an isolated little farm in Denmark with an elderly couple named Jillup. She acts as secretary to Mr. Jillup and as companion to his wife. She has no immediate family except an older brother, Jack, living in Bucharest, Rumania. Her life has been very lonely, as the Jillups have kept her secluded on the farm.

Do please write soon. Your affectionate sister, Frances.

P. S. Do not address your answer to the farm here, but merely to the village post office. I will get the hired man to inquire for it there.

Her hands trembling slightly, Frances addressed and stamped the letter, then put it in her pocket. Opening her door quietly, she slipped downstairs and out the side door.

Luck was with her, for over by the barn, old Nils, the hired man, was unharnessing the plow horse. Hoping she wouldn't be seen, she dashed across the yard and, as followed him.

Nils was a wiry old man with a weatherbeaten, honest face crisscrossed with wrinkles. He and Frances were good friends.

He now listened to her quick instructions without changing expression. Then, very carefully, he pocketed the letter she handed him.

"We oughta be gettin' a new horse," he said stolidly.

Frances grinned. She and Nils understood each other and, although he said nothing, she knew that he felt much the same as she did about the Jillups.

"Yes," he agreed. "He's getting old. Thanks, Nils."

"You come to me any time," he grunted. "Yes, we're needin' a new horse."

Frances went back to the house. Apparently no one had noticed her trip to the barn. She walked into the dining-room and took her place at the table.

And then, as she was inwardly enjoying her little ruse, Mr. Jillup dropped a bomb which drove all thoughts of Jack and the purple arrow from her mind.

"I've got some good news for you," he said slowly, holding a way with something I have seen or heard of before. Do you know anything about this, or is it just imagination on my part? I am told that people who live for years in isolation are apt to go queer, so perhaps that is the case with me?

Re-Open School At Westminster

WESTMINSTER.—The Westminster school, closed for two weeks on account of the epidemic of influenza, reopened Monday morning with a fair attendance registration.

Hoover school also reopened but with poor attendance, illness still prevailing among children in that district.

COLLECT MAGAZINES

TUSTIN.—All magazines for the WPA magazine project in Tustin district may be left at the Tustin branch library, it was announced by Mrs. J. B. Gowdy, Tustin custodian.

Mrs. Gowdy has urged that anyone who has old magazines leave them at the Library in the First National bank building on Main and D streets before Feb. 15.

He stopped, as though to give her the pleasure of anticipation, and bit into the bread. His long teeth suddenly had a horrible fascination for Frances.

"Very good news, my dear," the pallid Mrs. Jillup put in mildly.

Well, what was it, Fran wanted to cry out, but managed to keep silent. After a long pause, to produce suspense, Mr. Jillup continued, in his thin, sharp voice:

"Joe arrives this evening." Frances could feel the color drain from her face, and she clenched her hands in her lap. Joe coming tonight! He had left home over a year ago—she had heard, for good—and now he was coming back! Mr. Jillup must make her nervous, but his son, Joe, terrified her.

"He hopes," said Mr. Jillup, with a smirk, "that, by now, you will feel more favorable towards him."

"She must," Mrs. Jillup put in. "Not must," Mr. Jillup coldly corrected his wife, "but it would be better so."

Fran bit her lip. For a moment the room whirled before her eyes, and she had a feeling that a net was being drawn tightly around her.

Her first impulse was to flee from this place immediately. Then she realized how stupidly reckless that would be. Suppose she should flee to Bucharest—only to find Jack gone. Or suppose she should try to hide herself somewhere in Denmark—the Jillups would surely find her again, and she did not dare face their certain anger.

She drew a long breath and tried to think calmly. Nothing had happened yet to necessitate such a rash action. Things were uncomfortable, but nothing had happened. Then, too, there was always Nils to turn to for help. She knew how Nils felt about Joe. Yes, Nils would help her.

Before taking any definite action, she must wait until she had heard from Jack or, if he did not answer her letter, she must wait until she had a plan of some sort, and knew where she was going to do.

FLOOD DEBRIS CLEANUP IS LAUNCHED

Los Alamitos Suffers Most Heavily in Northern Area

The week-end flood was still one of the main topics for discussion throughout Orange county today as cities and communities were "mopping up" after the deluge. Los Alamitos was among the regions most severely hit by the flood in northern Orange county. Buena Park, Garden Grove and Fullerton also suffered some damage, as did Anaheim and Orange.

Main barrancas carrying storm waters from Brea creek and surrounding drainage areas stood up under battering of the extreme high water. In other years heavy rains menaced residents along the main drainage system, but preventative work by the city last year made the huge drain perfectly safe during the storm.

Banks of the barranca toppled into the stream for a short distance along West Malvern avenue, but little damage of a serious break was reported.

Water in Stores
Buena Park, where storm waters from Fullerton and a large territory to the east discharge, nearly was inundated Saturday night, with water creeping into stores and damaging homes.

At times depths of five feet were reported in certain areas of the town.

In Garden Grove, merchants protected their stores with sand bags when flood waters reached a dangerous height in the main street. No extensive damage was reported, although water ran into some stores and business houses.

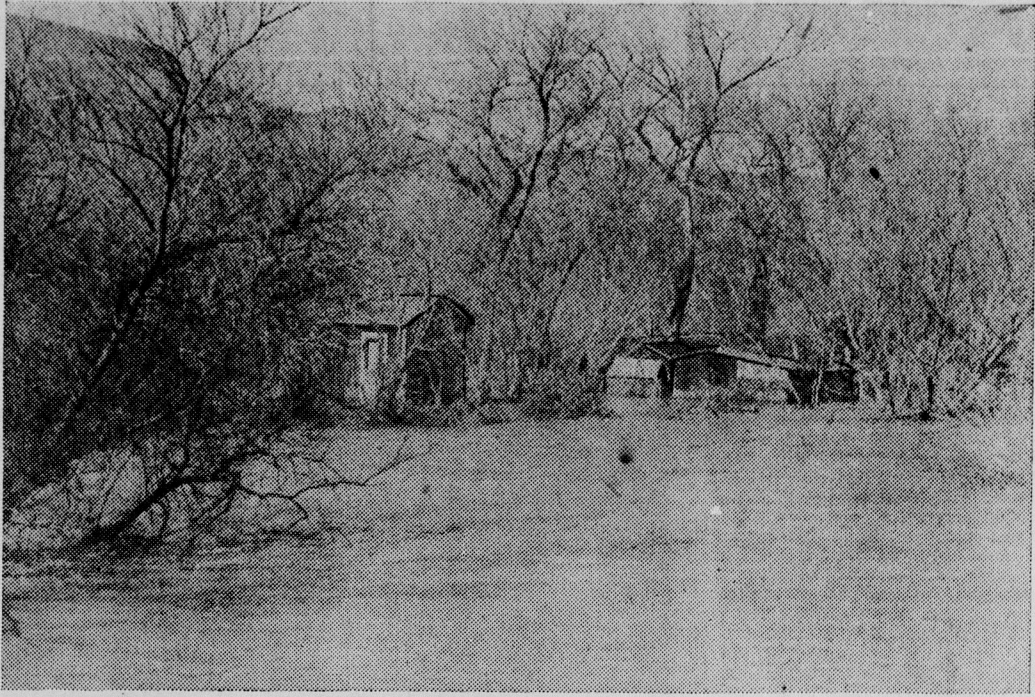

Midway City escaped damage during the downpour, as did Costa Mesa. At Wintersburg, however, a number of families were forced to leave their homes as rising water entered homes.

In Delhi, south of Santa Ana, the Mexican community was saved from inundation when a channel was cut beneath the Pacific Electric tracks, allowing flood waters to escape. Eddie Martin's airport was completely covered with water and a dangerous traffic condition existed in that vicinity, where water reached a depth of over two feet on the highway.

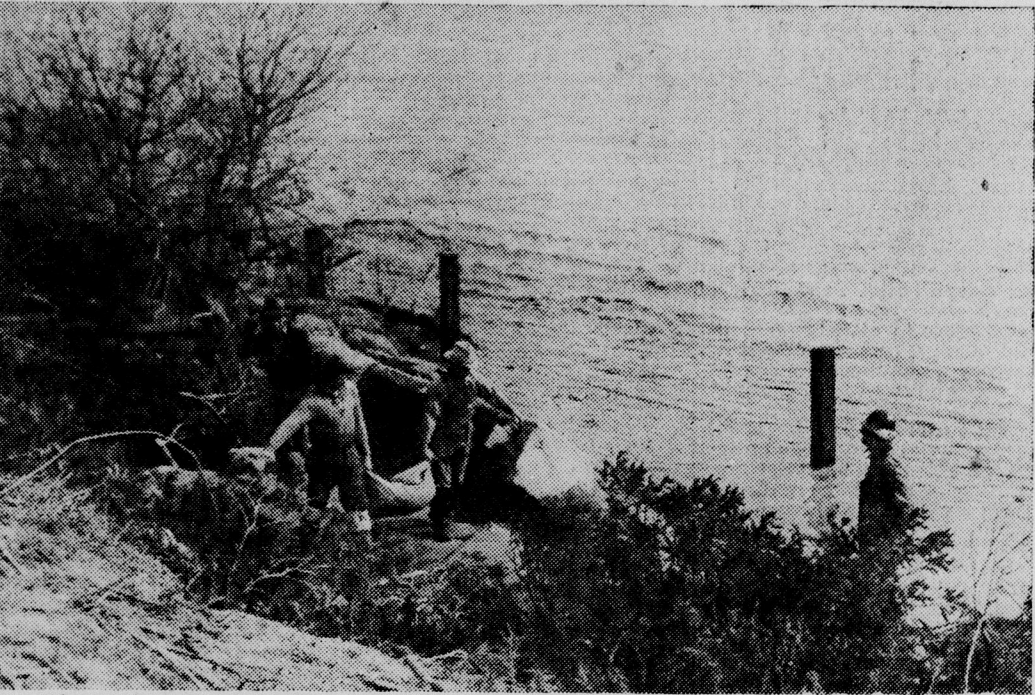

Newport and Laguna
"Not one dollar's worth of damage at Newport Beach." That was the announcement of Assistant City Engineer John Siegel yesterday, following a survey of the harbor area.

Aside from debris cluttering the beach—including a number of palm trees and orange trees, Newport escaped unscathed. Residents were advised today by city officials that another Los Angeles radio "scare" which upset homeowners there Saturday night,

Scenes of Week-End's High Water in Orange County

Privately owned mountain cabins in the Santa Ana river which were carried off their foundation by the flood waters in the Santa Ana canyon, are shown in the scene above.

Shown above is part of the crew of men that worked Saturday night and Sunday repairing a threatened break in the river at the Fifth street weir, just north of the Fifth street bridge. The men are carrying bags of sand used to stop up the bank which was eaten away.

would be without foundation. "A flood of twice this size would still leave Newport untouched," it was said.

Laguna Beach escaped serious damage, although a few homes suffered from mud and water. In Laguna canyon a number of homes in the new artist district were evacuated during height of the storm, but residents returned yesterday to find little damage to belongings.

Brea, La Habra and the hilly areas escaped with only slight damage, only the usual flooded cellars and muddy streets reported.

At San Clemente, the city yesterday still was out of touch with the outside world. All roads leading into the Spanish Village were washed out, but before nightfall a route through San Juan Capistrano, McKinley avenue and to Dana Point was expected to be opened.

The usual flooded streets and a few flooded homes were reported at Huntington Beach, where a heavy rainfall of 4.45 inches was recorded for the storm.

FALSE FLOOD ALARM HITS NEWPORT

Minor damage only was found in Newport harbor district today as result of the week-end of storm and flood—but there were some mighty indignant citizens at Newport today, and some with shattered nerves.

Rumor of an alarm by a Los Angeles radio station spread like wild water about midnight Saturday.

Los Angeles authorities evidently were not aware that the river's course had been changed, bringing it out near Huntington Beach instead of into Newport bay. A Los Angeles sheriff's office teletype mentioning "possibility of flood waters reaching danger point in a few hours between Santa Ana canyon and Newport bay" illustrated the erroneous warning to Newport residents.

Prepare to Flee
"Stand by to evacuate the town" was the way the word relayed from house to house by telephone. "Be ready to get out at any minute. The flood may sweep down upon Newport bay."

Although this area was confidently believed to be well out of the path of any flood waters, many prepared to flee the town, others kept radios on all through the night.

Some by fact or fancy insisted they heard the fire siren blasting at 2 in the morning, and were sure then that the virtually impossible had come to pass—Newport-Balboa was to be visited by a deluge.

Warning Redundant
Through it all, Lew Wallace, long-time resident, developer and civic figure, endeavored, he said today, to quiet the fearful.

This area was in no danger, experience told him, he explained in commenting on the affair, branding the alarm as ridiculous and outrageous.

Similar sentiments were expressed by E. I. Moore, for many years a merchant and leader here. Where the report originated he said he could not imagine.

Call for Boats
"Newport bay never has been touched by a flood disaster in our experience," Wallace and Moore agreed, "and we do not think it ever will be. The very topography of the county is our best protection."

Fire Chief Crocker and Harbor-master Bouchee answered the call of Sheriff Jackson for boats in the inland flooded area. One small boat was reported sunk in Newport bay during the night blow.

Already balked in two attempts to break her husband's will, Ruth Elvira Whiting today faced another obstacle in her attempt to gain a share of the estate.

William J. Clark, executor, filed in court her objections to Mrs. Whiting's plea that she be granted a widow's allowance of $250 per month. The husband, Frank Whiting, from whom she had separated before his death last August 15, cut her off in his will.

Clark's objections asserted that Mrs. Whiting was divorced from Whiting, that Whiting's daughter, Elena Ann Whiting, by a previous marriage, needed the estate, and that there are not sufficient funds to meet Mrs. Whiting's claim. Further, he asserted, the widow has sufficient property to care for her needs.

Mrs. Whiting attacked the will several months ago on grounds Whiting was intoxicated when he drew it, and that it was not legally executed. Superior Judge H. G. Ames decided against her. Later she was denied a new trial of the will contest.

Phone Operators Given Praise

Two telephone operators in the courthouse annex today won appreciative thanks of county officials for their work in helping the officials in touch with the flood conditions throughout the county.

The operators were Mrs. Robert Walker, regularly employed at the courthouse switchboard, and Miss Velda Lockett, employee of the county purchasing department. They worked all night Saturday night, all day Sunday and until 8:30 o'clock Sunday night with little rest and no sleep.

During recent floods in Brazil one-fourth of the city of Porto Alegre was submerged, causing vast damage to property.

Galli Curci May Visit Laguna Friends in Tent

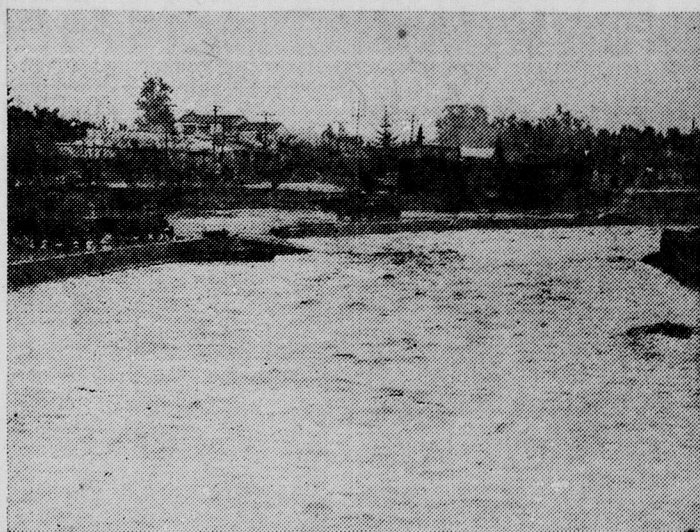

When Galli Curci comes to Laguna Beach in a few weeks she'll probably have to visit her friends in a tent.

The famous singer was to be the house guest of Misses Florence Yoch and Lucile Council in their beach home, Sul Mare. But Sul Mare, unfortunately, is no more.

The house dropped four feet and twisted and cracked when the bluff lot on which it sat gave way Sunday. The earth was weakened by torrential rains and seeping overflow from Saturday's flood.

Misses Yoch and Council removed their furniture and are awaiting architects' reports on feasibility of repairing the structure.

Water Roars Down Santiago Creek

Up within a foot of the retaining wall built by Santa Ana and the WPA, the heavy flood waters are shown above rushing down Santiago creek in Santa Ana. The picture was taken near the spot where a house fell into the creek in 1927.

Board Beats Solon's Time on Juvenile Aid Plan

Because Orange county supervisors got together with Presiding Judge H. G. Ames on a plan for a coordinating council secretary, to be paid by the county, two of Senator Harry C. Westover's bills, introduced on the last day of the session, are to die a natural death.

Both were amendments to existing laws, authorizing the judge of the juvenile court to "appoint a person to serve as a deputy of the court, who shall be known as a coordinator." The appointee would represent the juvenile court in its efforts to prevent juvenile delinquency, the bills provided.

Judge Ames, who conducts the juvenile court here, and J. A. Cranston, chairman of the Santa Ana coordinating council, suggested the amendments, Senator Westover said.

Cranston, who ran for supervisor in the primaries and later supported Steele Finley, has been mentioned prominently as the likely choice of supervisors if they create the position.

Westover said today he will drop the bill inasmuch as supervisors and Judge Ames have worked out a plan to create the post without an enabling bill.

Margaret Ragsdale was named attendance supervisor at Willard Junior High school by the board of education last night, at a salary of $75 a month. She replaces Mrs. W. E. Rindel, who resigned.

Mrs. Hazel Campbell Bishop of Delhi school was named substitute for Miss Hazel G. Dawson, who is ill and finds it necessary to be relieved of her work for an indefinite period. Mrs. Bishop will handle the nutrition, a pre-nursing course, in the high school. Miss Dawson's junior college work will be taken temporarily by Mrs. Miriam Sinton.

Medora Smith was assigned to assist Miss Lucinda Griffith in art and craft work in the high school and junior college at a salary of $25 a month.

Herman Ramsey, attendance supervisor, reported on his trip to the recent school convention at San Francisco.

The board also approved a recommendation from Principal Lynn Crawford of the high school regarding use of the high school gymnasium by the Woolen Mills basketball team and others in the commercial league. Use of the gymnasium was granted on a basis of $10 rent if games are free and $15 rent if a charge is made.

TRIO TO ATTEND SCHOOL MEET

Three representatives from the Santa Ana school system will attend the national conference of superintendents and high school principals in New Orleans Feb. 20 to 25.

Last night the board of education, after considerable discussion, voted to authorize the expenditure of funds for this purpose. The minimum cost will be $165 per person attending the conference.

Superintendent Frank A. Henderson will be one of the trio attending. It was understood that Principal Lynn Crawford of the high school will be another. It was not decided which school board member will attend.

The board member that attends will be asked to appear on the program at the conference on the subject of California school building problems, especially as related to federal aid.

STATE TO SHOW '7 SINNERS'

Showing for the first time in Santa Ana, "Seven Sinners" opens Wednesday at the State theater with Edmund Lowe and Constance Cummings in the starring roles. "The other big feature on the bill is "Mr. Cinderella."

"Seven Sinners" deals with the adventures of an American detective to discover the reason for the wreck of a French train in which he is riding. His clues carry him and a girl insurance investigator into an amazing series of incidents.

Comedy is the outstanding feature of "Mr. Cinderella," which tells the story of how a barber with a society complex wins his princess charming and a fortune through the maze of modern inventions, conveniences and conventions. Featured in the cast are Jack Haley, Betty Furness, Arthur Treacher and Raymond Walburn.

Included on the bill is a novelty short, "Fisherman's Luck."

BREAKS SHOULDER

Ben Felch, Buena Park, was in the county hospital for treatment of a fractured shoulder yesterday. He incurred the injury when he fell while working at home Saturday.

FOUR-POINT FARM PLAN PRESENTED

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Secretary Wallace asked farm leaders today to support an "ever-normal granary plan" which would clamp rigid control on major crops when supplies become excessive.

Opening a conference yesterday of more than 50 farm leaders summoned to frame a long term federal farm program, Wallace presented this four-point program:

1. Continuation of present relief payments to farmers under the soil conservation program. Wallace said this program assured abundant crops in normal weather and also provided against drought years.

2. A government loan program on stored farm products when-ever supplies top normal consumption requirements. Wallace said this would put "a plank under farm prices to keep them from falling."

3. Extra benefit payments to encourage farmers to restrict acreage if the loan program fails to curtail production.

4. A rigid crop control program should the first three measures prove ineffective in reducing surpluses.

Wallace said the crop control plan would be developed "under the power of congress to regulate interstate commerce, or the power to levy taxes to provide for the general welfare, or through effective cooperation between the states and the federal government."

'LOVE SONG' FOR WEST COAST

Two of this season's best comedies came to the West Coast theater tomorrow when Manager Les Fountain presents "Sing Me a Love Song" and "We're on the Jury."

Hugh Herbert, though he is not billed as the star of "Sing Me a Love Song," practically "steals" the picture, it is claimed by critics who saw the picture as a preview. If that is so, then there must be an abundance of comedy in the film for such favorite funsters as ZaSu Pitts, Allen Jenkins and Nat Pendleton are listed in the cast. James Melton, radio singing star, and Patricia Ellis supply the romance.

The other picture on the program features Victor Moore and Helen Broderick in "We're on the Jury." Moore is the comedian who scored such hits as the Broadway producer in "Gold Diggers of 1937" and as Fred Astaire's pal in "Swing Time." Miss Broderick, who is rapidly becoming Hollywood's most-in-demand comedienne, played in "Swing Time" with Moore and their work together proved so successful they were teamed in "We're on the Jury."

A cartoon, "Porky of the North Woods," and World News round out tomorrow's offerings of the Main street showhouse.

POLY BAND MAY 'BLOSSOM'

The band at Santa Ana High school soon may blossom forth with new instruments and new uniforms, if present plans are carried through to completion.

Last night Daniel W. Stover, music director at the high school, requested rental or purchase of new instruments for students in the band. Chairman George Wells of the board of education will name a special committee to determine costs and decide action to be taken, although it was indicated that the board favors the program.

Stover pointed out that the membership in the high school band and orchestra has increased 40 per cent over last semester, and that by next year the band may number as many as 55 pieces.

A suggestion was made at the board meeting that a WPA project be submitted for making of new uniforms for the band members.

COUNTY GETS $82,358 FOR ROADS FROM STATE GASOLINE TAX

PAST GLORIES OF AVOCADO DEPICTED

Tubbs Shows Downward Price Trend Since Industry Began

Past glories of Orange county's avocado industry, with the delicacy returning growers 40 cents per pound, were reviewed today by Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs in a survey of production here since 1915.

Now representing an investment of about $15,000,000, the industry had barely started here in 1915, with 50 bearing trees and about 1500 non-bearing trees, according to Tubbs' records.

Acres of Trees
"In other words, if all the trees were brought together in one location there would have been less than one acre bearing and perhaps 20 to 25 acres planted but not yet in production," Tubbs explained.

Top prices of about 40 cents per pound to growers were registered in 1925, when Orange county had 54 bearing acres and 403 non-bearing acres. That year 53,500 pounds of fruit brought $26,200.

Big Price Break
To growers currently worrying about crops lost and trees damaged by frost, Tubbs brought a picture of prices declining through the years as production climbed.

Between 1925 and 1930 prices ran from 22 to 35 cents per pound. "The big break in avocado prices came in 1931 when some 450 acres in bearing and 825 non-bearing. That year the production was almost three times that of the previous year. The average price was 13 1/2 cents per pound," Tubbs reported.

Acres Tripled
During the past five years, bearing acreage in this county has more than tripled, but non-bearing acreage has remained about constant. Prices averaged 7 1/2 cents per pound. Last year's returns indicate a total of $160,000 for 1,670,000 pounds, or about 10 cents per pound.

There were approximately 1600 acres in bearing and less than 500 from which there was only slight or no production in 1936, the commissioner stated.

Widow Seeks Award of Estate

Large land holdings of Francis M. Thomas, who died Dec. 11, were claimed yesterday by his widow, Mrs. Zouza C. Thomas of Santa Ana, when she asked the superior court to appoint her administrator of his estate.

She asked the court to award her 140 acres of land southeast of Santa Ana and other property she and her husband held jointly. This includes three lots in Santa Ana, two in Seal Beach, and two at Idyllwild, mountain resort in Riverside county.

Thomas' separate estate amounted to less than $1500, she stated. Other legal heirs are Mrs. Lela Deardorff, Mrs. Beulah Bullock, Miss Gladys Thomas and Eugene Thomas, all of Santa Ana; and Mrs. Semone Otto of Costa Mesa, all sons and daughters.

Battle Over Formation of County Was Bitter One

By TED N. BURRELL
Incongruously, one of Orange county's most bitter political battles was waged before it became a county. This strange state of affairs was brought to a head by the appointment by the governor of the state of California of a board of commissioners to arrange for an election to determine whether this county should become a county or remain a portion of the parent county of Los Angeles.

Prior to the appointment of the board, political factions had lined up for the battle. The northern portion of the county, represented by Anaheim and Fullerton, favored the placing of the county boundary line along the San Gabriel river, which would place Anaheim in almost the center of the county and thus place it in a strategic position for the coveted honor of becoming county seat. The southern district, headed by Santa Ana, favored Coyote creek as the boundary line. This placement would place Santa Ana as the logical contender for county seat laurels.

Against Separation
The board, composed of J. H. Kellom, A. Caldwell, J. W. Townner, W. F. McFadden and R. Q. Wickham, arranged for a general election which was held on

BURKE TO TALK AT CHURCH

J. Frank Burke, former Santa Ana publisher and now owner of a Los Angeles radio station, will speak on "The Significance of the Gospel," at Wednesday night's college night assembly program at the First Methodist church. The affair will be the fourth in a series of eight, and will start with a dinner at 6 p. m. served by the Home Builders class.

Six adult classes will be held as follows: "The Leader in Public Worship," Dr. J. Hastie Odgers; "Elizabeth, The Empress of Austria," biographical review by Mrs. Muriel White; "Sociological Aspects of Life," the Rev. George A. Warner, jr.; "Science Reconstructs a Vaster Universe," Mrs. Jennie Tessmann; "The Material We Use," Mrs. Helen McArthur, and "John: The Gospel of The Son of God," the Rev. W. I. Lowe. Classes will meet at 7:35 p. m. During the address by Burke movies will be shown for children, supervised by Richard Howland. Supervisors will carry out programs for groups from junior high age down to the cradle roll.

Seek Possession Of La Habra Lot

Complaining that Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schooley, La Habra, have not kept up payments on a lot in that city, but refuse to give it up, State Mutual Building & Loan association yesterday started suit in superior court here.

The firm asks that its title to the lot be cleared, and that the Schooleys be required to give possession.

POPULATION AT JAYSEE GROWING

Report Shows 637 Sign Up During Week of Registration

Registration figures at Santa Ana junior college showed a slight increase today as late registrations brought the total to 684. The first week of registration, 637 students had signed up with Registrar Mabel G. Whiting. Many students had been unable to register because of illness.

To Continue
The semester's total last year was 745. Students are expected to enroll at the college during the first few weeks of instruction. Several new courses have been added to the curriculum for the second semester. Chief among these is the radio-electricity course under the instruction of C. Norman Hicks. This is the first time this course has been offered at the college.

Feature Writing
In the journalism department, aside from the regular classes, the course in modern feature writing has lured 32 students. John H. McCoy is the instructor for this class. The junior forum class which was started last semester is being continued under the direction of Calvin C. Flint, instructor.

Aside from these subjects, the art, commerce, journalism, science, English, history and home economics departments are continuing their regular second semester work.

DRIVERS AVOID ACCIDENTS

Despite flooded and muddy highways, Orange county escaped with virtually no traffic accidents over the week-end. There were no traffic fatalities.

Mired down in muddy waters and stopped by earth slides, those motorists who ventured out during the flood conditions had a hard time progressing. No collisions were reported to sheriff's or highway patrol officers, however.

A blue sedan was found abandoned after it plunged from the highway near the Arches underpass some time Saturday night. Flood waters in an ordinarily dry ravine had torn out a retaining wall and undermined the highway, which apparently broke under the weight of the car.

Mystery surrounded the driver. The accident was not reported to police, and the car contained no identification or registration slip. Inside was a new console radio, but nothing else.

Urges National Youth Movement

"America needs a nation-wide youth movement," Dr. Walter A. Maier declared Sunday in his broadcast on the coast-to-coast Lutheran hour network. "But this youth movement, unlike the nationalistic organizations of Europe, must be a spiritual awakening. Our young people must be mobilized for God and not for godlessness; for Christ and not against Christ; for the study of the Bible and not for indifference against the Bible."

Speaking of "Christ's Youth Program," Dr. Maier deplored some of the changes that have taken place in American church life. "Denominations which 50 years ago stood fast and firm are now wavering and shaking. They are collapsing because they feature a mixed highbrow religion which is asking to harmonize God's word with man's, which crushes divine revelation into oblivion. We shake our heads at the revival of paganism abroad. But in our own country false altars are reared throughout the land."

Accuses Hubby of Advertising for Women Friends

Her husband's asserted advertisement for the attentions of other women, through a magazine, "heart throbs" and column, today formed the basis of a divorce suit started by Mrs. Alice Potts in superior court here against Joe Wilson Potts.

He placed an ad in Twentieth Century Age magazine, indicating that he was unmarried and desirous of making the acquaintance of matrimonially-minded women, according to Mrs. Potts' complaint, prepared by Raymond Thompson, Fullerton attorney.

The resulting correspondence embarrassed and humiliated her, Mrs. Potts stated.

Meehan Attends Safety School

Capt. Henry C. Meehan, chief of the Orange county unit of the California Highway patrol, today was in Los Angeles for the beginning of a two-weeks' training school for patrol captains.

The school, usually lasting a week each year, has been extended to two weeks this time in order to include an intensive study of safety methods. In the chief's absence, Officer Walter Meyer is acting captain at the local office.

CAR HITS SLIDE

When his car crashed into an earthslide on the Carbon canyon road Saturday night, Sacramento Martinez, 31, Placentia, incurred a fractured collarbone. He was taken to the county hospital for treatment.

Personality Sketches Of U. S. Supreme Court Justices

(Editor's Note: The personnel of the supreme court is of major importance as a result of President Roosevelt's latest recommendation for legislation to permit him to increase its membership to 15 and to provide for retirement of justices over 70. Following is the second of a series of short sketches of the lives of the nine members of the court. By reading these, one may be able to predict how members of the court will vote on future legislation following the President's recent plea for the court to subscribe to his New Deal policies.)

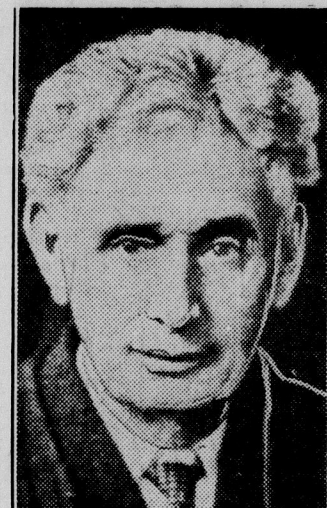

For the past 20 years, Justice Louis Dembitz Brandeis has been one of the leading liberals on the U. S. supreme bench. He has been the great dissenter.

Brandeis was born 79 years ago to a German-Jewish family which had left Germany in 1848. He was graduated from the Harvard Law school in 1877, and thereafter practiced law for many years, until appointed supreme court justice by President Wilson in 1916.

Brandeis, since then, has made his decisions along the lines of independent living for the individual. It was for that reason he fought the NRA on the ground that the law interfered with the individual's right to make such bargains as he would.

Well-read and alert, Brandeis is the oldest man on the bench, approximately 80 years of age. His great shock of white hair makes him almost as well known as Hughes with his beard.

In future legislation, Brandeis can be expected to take the liberal side of any issue—if his concept of individual liberty is not involved, as in the NRA.

Nation Now More Supreme Court Conscious Than in Any Year of Its History

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Roosevelt's proposal for a young blood transfusion operation on the courts goes before the nation in an hour when it is already more supreme court conscious than ever.

Four years of debate, carried through exciting elections, have revolved about the high courts and its powers. The acts of the Roosevelt administration brought to the constitutional bar have been such as to touch intimately the lives of all citizens.

New Knowledge
Out of that has grown a new and far-spreading knowledge of the court and of its personnel. It is not alone the name of Chief Justice Hughes which is widely known.

The names, ages, indicated philosophy of every one of his eight colleagues, the associate justices, have been impressed upon the public mind to an extent unparalleled in the nation's history.

That is the background of the President's bold gesture that

CAN GET CASH FOR RECEIPT

Mrs. Agnes Parrott Lindig, who charged before the 1936 grand jury that she lost her share of an estate to a bunko artist, can claim the share by signing a receipt at the California bank, Los Angeles, the bank asserted yesterday.

In answer to her complaint, charging that the banks holds a portion of the estate, deposited by John A. Parsons, the bank declared that Parsons left instructions to turn the deposit over to Mrs. Lindig when she signed a receipt he left with the bank.

Mrs. Lindig refused to sign the receipt, the bank's answer stated. Parsons was indicted on a grand theft charge by the grand jury on Dec. 28, 1936. Mrs. Lindig charged that Parsons informed her that her granddaughter, Janet Agnes Parker, had died in San Francisco, and that Mrs. Lindig was the sole heir.

He showed her one set of papers, then substituted another for her signature, giving him power of attorney to collect her share of the estate, she told the grand jury. One agreement gives Parsons his expenses and half of Mrs. Lindig's share of the estate.

Parsons collected $14,074.33 in cash and a number of bonds and other valuables from the estate, Mrs. Lindig said.

Seeks $6137 for Crash Damages

S. Hiram yesterday sought $6,137.15 damages from Mrs. R. W. Dunning in an auto accident suit being tried before Presiding Judge H. G. Ames of the superior court.

Hiram asserted he suffered an injured thigh and hip Dec. 22, 1935, when cars driven by his son, Kenneth, and Roger K. Dunning collided at First and Flower streets, Santa Ana.

Women Are Rivals In Damage Case

Asking $15,189 damages for a scalp wound and other injuries allegedly sustained in an accident here Jan. 16, Mary J. Miller yesterday started suit in superior court against Lucile Honan.

Mrs. Miller said she was struck by Mrs. Honan's car while walking across the intersection of Birch and Pine streets.

FUND COVERS FINAL 1936 QUARTER

Total Amount Gathered in State Reported as $11,000,000

Autoists contributed $82,358 to Orange county for use on its roads during the last quarter of 1936. They paid it in pennies by way of the state gasoline tax.

The figure was made public today by State Controller Harry B. Riley.

Riley said the total tax in the state amounted to more than $11,000,000 in the final quarter of the year. This was 7.6 per cent greater than in the corresponding period of 1935. One-third of this sum goes to counties and the balance to the state highway fund.

Riverside county will receive $61,427 for the same quarter, San Bernardino county $56,545, San Diego county $138,828, Ventura county $40,775, Kern county $70,934, Santa Barbara county $47,372, Imperial county $39,393 and Los Angeles county $1,335,828.

Apportionments are based on motor vehicle registrations. Los Angeles county has 36 per cent of all cars registered in the state. The total figures for 1936 show counties received $14,290,000 and the highway fund $28,580,000. The 1935 figures show county subscriptions from the gas tax were $13,277,000 and the highway received $26,560,000.

class will begin Feb. 16 and meet eight times.

Expansion of the motion picture subjects will come about through the establishment of a complete film library in Los Angeles by the state university system. Plans are being made by boards of education and boards of trustees to establish a film library in the county library to be issued Orange county schools on a rental basis. The county library will manage the project and serve as a depository without charge.

Wedding of Marcia Huber and Kenneth Price Will Occur Early This Spring

Betrothal Is Revealed at Stanford

Popular Local Couple To Live in Fresno After Wedding

That Miss Marcia Huber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross C. Huber, and Kenneth Price, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Price, will be married within the next two months was announced Saturday in the Stanford Daily by Alpha Omicron Pi, Miss Huber's sorority.

Both are Santa Ana young people, and are extremely popular members of the younger set during their frequent visits at home. Miss Huber, who was graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles four years ago, taught at El Segundo until this autumn, when she entered Stanford university as a post-graduate student.

At the same time Mr. Price purchased a ranch near Fresno, and it is there that the popular couple will make their home after their Santa Ana wedding. Mr. Price was graduated from Oregon State college, where he was a member of Phi Gamma Delta. Both attended Santa Ana High school together.

Miss Huber will leave Stanford in about two weeks and will spend the remaining time before her wedding with her parents at their home, 820 Halladay street.

HOSTESSES USE COLOR SCHEME OF WEDDING

Forecasting a particularly pretty wedding was the party given Saturday evening by Miss Dorothy Obarr and Miss Betty Cox, for they used as their color scheme throughout the evening the delicate pink and blue that is to be the theme of Miss Dora Tedford's wedding to Raymond Todd of Orange on February twenty-first.

Miss Tedford was the guest of honor, as she discovered to her surprise when, at the conclusion of an evening spent playing "cootie" her "prize" turned out to be a bevy of daintily wrapped gifts, in the blue and white that will decorate the kitchen of her new home. Miss Frances Gribble was named high scorer at the game, when all the lovely gifts had been sufficiently admired, and received as her prize a lovely water-color, painted by a friend of Miss Obarr.

The pink and blue color scheme of the dining room was indeed lovely, with pink and white stock centering the lace cloth, and white tapers in blue candleholders casting their light over pink crystal. At one end was a beautiful tiered wedding cake, over which Miss Tedford was asked to preside and serve. Ice cream centered with pink hearts completed the pretty effect.

Sharing in the affair were Mrs. W. A. Obarr, at whose home, 902 South Van Ness, it was held, and who assisted her daughter and Miss Cox; Miss Helen Valverdean of Orange; Mrs. Robert Harvey of Anaheim; Mrs. George Smith of Villa Park; Miss Betty Hawk; Miss Frances Gribble; Miss Marie Parris; Miss Martha Hemstra; Miss Margaret Fine; Mrs. P. W. Todd; Mrs. T. F. Tedford and the two hostesses.

OLD FRIENDS GATHER TO MARK BIRTHDAY

A whole week-end of festivities marked the Sunday birthday of J. Arthur Anderson of 1416 North Parton street, who was the surprised honored guest at a party Saturday night in his home and who cut a second birthday cake on Sunday at a family dinner.

Guests at Saturday's party were members of a little Friendship club who have celebrated birthdays and Christmas together almost since their childhood.

Participating in the celebration with Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were Mr. and Mrs. John Sauer and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hibbert of Tustin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brannon of Riverside, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Koepsel of Lemon heights.

The evening came to a close with a dainty refreshment course served buffet style from a lace-spread table on which the Valentine motif played an important role. Red candles in crystal holders and hearts scattered over the table cloth set a pretty color scheme which was repeated in the refreshments and the birthday cake.

Mrs. Blanche Martin, Mrs. Anderson's mother, who arrived Saturday morning from her home in Monmouth, Ill., to spend the winter with the Andersons, also enjoyed the evening with the group, and was present at the family gathering on Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Waite, a sister and brother-in-law, joined them for dinner.

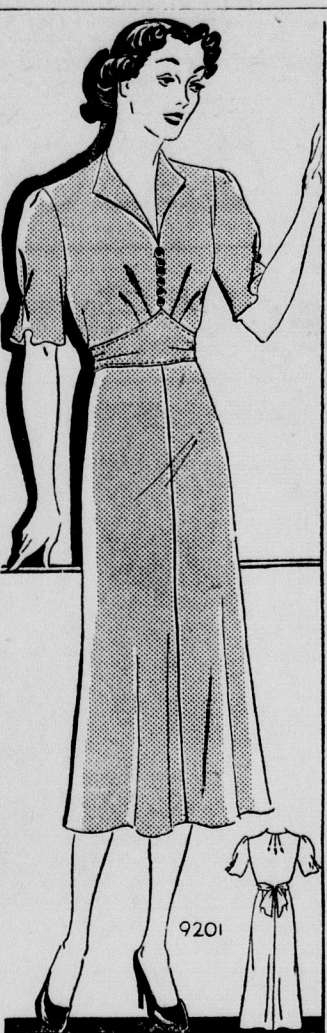

William Anderson, young son of the home, rounded out the family circle.

Your Baby Book

By BETTY COX

"Rain, rain, go away,
"Come again some other day."
"Little Johnny wants to play."

And so the rain went away, and the sun came out, and Johnny and Mary and Peter and Polly and all the rest of our Baby Book children are out playing in the sunshine again.

For storms are but passing fancies in baby minds. The rain is just like their tears, all pelting down one minute and the next minute running away from a smile, and even the reason for them forgotten.

There are sunny days ahead for this little family of Baby Book folk, who each week are becoming a bigger and bigger family. Today we meet a whole corps of new names, starting with Kenny (Milo Kenneth, Jr.) Tedstrom.

Kenny was two last Nov. 17. Blind and blue-eyed, and a native son of Santa Ana, this little boy is another outdoor enthusiast, and is extremely fond of horses. But not of the regular kind of horses—those occupying his attention are the kind found in grown-up gymnasiums, the kind you bounce on and off, turn somersaults over, and play with to develop big muscles.

Next to horses, Kenny loves his little cocker spaniel, Flopsie, who is a great pal.

Kenny is fond of rain, too, and thinks it a good idea to keep the door open while it is raining so he can watch the drops coming down and splashing on the ground.

Another little boy with a dog for a pal is Bobby McCalla, four-year-old son of the R. H. McCallas of South Flower street, who finds a faithful playmate in Sandy, his little white Scottie.

Bobby likes the outdoors so much that his recent flu siege was tremendously boring, keeping him in the house for so many days when he might have been out on his wagon.

Not that he doesn't have home interests, for he even likes washing dishes and making pies, and he especially fond of books.

Bobby had a trip to the snow this winter, and had a lot of fun in it this time, as he had seen it before and knew what to do with it. Bobby is a blond, though his hair is getting darker, and he has the bluest eyes and the pinkest cheeks.

Nancy Jerome, pretty little daughter of the William Jerome, Jr.'s, who will not be a year old until July 3, is one little girl who does love her bath.

In fact, when her dark hair is all soapy and wet and her face all soapy-jeeed up from laughing at the water until you can hardly see her big blue eyes at all, then she's just about as happy as she could ever imagine being.

Aside from bathing, she finds a lot of enjoyment in sleeping. She's a good little traveler, too, and has been quite often to Encinitas to visit her mother's family.

A real Christmas baby was Kenny Morgan, three-year-old son of the Charles Morgans of 1446 Maple street, who always has a birthday cake with his Christmas dinner and who has just twice as much to celebrate that day as all the other children he knows.

Kenny is a brunet, with very dark hair and eyes, and likes his bike and also books. He has learned most of his story books by heart and can tell you the story and turn the pages at the right time just as though he was reading the words.

His idea of what he wants to be when he grows up changes every day or so. One day it's a teacher, the next an auto driver—but whatever he decides on, he'll be a good one, judging by the earnestness with which he takes up new occupations even in his play.

Pretty clothes are the delight of perky little Joanne Loughton, whose red curls are to be seen bobbing in and out of the Kenneth Loughton home on Kilson drive most any time of the day.

Dresses can be any color or style, but one thing they must all have and that is puff sleeves. Sleeves must always stand up, in her fashion books.

To go with those red curls, Joanne has very red cheeks, creamy skin, and hazel brown eyes. One of her chief interests in life is her Shirley Temple doll, which she undresses and puts to bed every night, and which must always eat with her.

Four next Aug. 5, Joanne adores her big brother, Kenneth, Jr., who is four years older than she. Kenneth likes to play with her, but is somewhat bothered about her not knowing how to read or do arithmetic and all those things he knows how to do because he goes to school, and teaches her some of the simpler things she must know before she starts, and she thinks he is just about all right—provided he remembers to kiss her good-bye when he leaves in the morning.

Little Edward Lee Russell, Jr., made the acquaintance recently of his grandmother, Mrs. R. E. Russell of Memphis, Tenn., who spent five days with his family here during a short vacation trip to California.

He found her a mighty nice person, and named her "Monee." Grandma is an attorney in Memphis, so couldn't stay out here very long, and Edward Lee has missed her since she went back home.

A wave of the hand and a happy smile awaits the engineer of the morning train every day when he takes his big engine slowly through Santa Ana, for a daily visitor to "watch the choo-choo" is little Bobby Williams, son of the Henry Williams of Kilson drive.

Bobby never misses, rain or shine. Two years old last Oct. 17, he starts every day with a trip down to the train tracks with Dad and Mother, to wave to the man who makes the wheels go 'round.

At home, Bobby loves his "T's"—which in growing language are teddy bears; and he spends much time reading to them the stories which he knows pretty much by heart. He has a whole family of "T's," wee-wee T's, middle-sized T's, and squishy big T's.

Books and the outdoors vie for his interest now; and his Daddy thinks he'll be an electrical engineer when he grows up, for he delights in taking things apart and seeing what makes them go.

We're all so glad to hear that little Freddy Tarr is getting better after his ear operation. He was to be up and around for a little while today, we are told, and that's a pretty good sign that his ear is almost better.

ST. ELIZABETH'S GUILD

St. Elizabeth's guild of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah will hold its regular meeting Wednesday at 7 p. m. in the parish hall, each member being asked to bring materials for making rag rugs and quilt patches. Mrs. Elton Holmes and Mrs. Roland McCalla are chairman for the evening.

Lions Honor Founders Of Club

A gala celebration of its fifteenth birthday anniversary will be enjoyed Thursday evening by the Lions club of Santa Ana, when a dinner dance at the Santa Ana Country club will honor its eleven charter members, and the wives of all the members.

Orchestra music will be heard during the dinner hour, with Rolla Hays Jr., relinquishing his presidential gavel for the evening to Harry Hanson, one of the original members, who will act as chairman and toastmaster.

Lyle Anderson has acted as general chairman and has arranged for a vaudeville show to be given immediately after dinner, which in turn will be followed by cards and dancing. Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Hays, Mrs. Frank Harwood and Mrs. Lew Blodgett have arranged the decorations and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gould are in charge of the cards.

Charter members and their wives to be feted, will include Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Hillyard, Dr. and Mrs. Elliott Rowland, the Rev. and Mrs. Perry Schrock, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Tidball, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Willets, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wigger, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Abbey, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spicer.

Acting as hosts and hostesses to the eighty couples expected will be the Messrs. and Mesdames Rolla Hays, Jr., Hal Hatfield, Bruce Monroe, Lyle Anderson, Don Jerome, Ben Manker, Don Dearth, Joe Peterson, John Henderson, Vic Walker, H. L. Manker, Burr Shafer, W. A. Shook, John McCarty, C. W. Hill, Henry Williams, C. W. Harrison, Carson Smith, Frank Harwood, Logan Jackson, Earl Abbey, Carl Stein, E. M. COUSIN QUINLET FETES MISS LETTIE STOWE

Five charming cousins united their efforts Saturday evening to honor another cousin, Miss Lettie Stowe of Los Angeles, who will marry Joseph McIlroy of Hollywood on March seventh. Miss Stowe formerly lived here and is the daughter of Mrs. Harriet Stowe of Santa Ana.

The affair was held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Mitchell, 922 West Camille street, with Mrs. Beryl Horton of Los Angeles, Mrs. Irma Frazee and Mrs. Anna Johnson of Fairmont, Minn., forming the quartet of assistant cousin-hostesses.

Pretty spring flowers and Valentine decorations contrasted with the storm outside, and games of bridge and rook made it a merry evening. Attractive prizes were awarded to Mrs. Addie Lowe and Mrs. Johnson, at bridge, and to Mrs. Fannie Rose and Miss Margaret Bowen, at rook.

Small tables with Valentine napkins and red hearts were centered with tall red candles for the dinner. A refreshment course that climaxed the presentation of lovely miscellaneous gifts to Miss Stowe.

Guests invited by the hostesses to participate in the affair were Miss Margaret Grant, Mrs. Wilbur Getty, Mrs. Addie Lowe, Miss Mary Lockhart, Mrs. Sylvester Kelly of Los Angeles, Mrs. Alma Kelly and Mrs. Effie Rice of Whittier, Mrs. Leila Bingham, Mrs. Etta Sweet, Mrs. Edith Getty, Mrs. Nannie Lester, Mrs. Emma Rose, Mrs. Fannie Rose, Mrs. Ella Stowe, Mrs. Omar Short, Mrs. Lyle Blencoe, Mrs. Lydia Robinson, Miss Margaret Bowen, Mrs. Irene Ostiguy of Los Angeles, Mrs. Homer Bomboy of Costa Mesa, Mrs. Jessie Rose of Los Angeles, Mrs. Dane Stowe of Pasadena, Mrs. George Swearingen, Mrs. Hugo Balaue of Costa Mesa, Miss Lucy Luscombe and Miss Anne Anderson of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Marie Mitchell, Mrs. Jesse Gube, Mrs. James Sweet, Mrs. Roscoe P. Downs of Videt, and Mrs. Harriet Stowe.

LUNCHEON CLUB ENTERTAINED

Golden State Luncheon club members were guests of Mrs. Jennie Tulene, Mrs. Vera Pope, and Mrs. Audrey Steele, when they met Friday at the Tulene home, 1316 King street for a Valentine covered dish luncheon.

Mrs. Marjorie Boyd presided over a business session. Prizes for the afternoon were won by Mrs. Victor Adams and Mrs. Minnie Norman and the members enjoyed the good time being the Mesdames Minnie Norman, Marjorie Boyd, Victor Adams, Flora Dolbee, Maxie Wilson, Neva Weekly, Lena Chapman, Elda Crawford, Geneva Welch Vera Pope, Jennie Tulene and Audrey Steele.

PARTY SERIES IS LAUNCHED

A lovely Valentine luncheon and afternoon of bridge at which Mrs. Sarah Johnston Haddon and Mrs. H. T. Dunning presided today in the former's home at 202 1/2 South Syracuse ushered in a series of three parties at which Mrs. Haddon is to be hostess this week.

Valentine appointments graced the luncheon tables, at which places were laid for twenty, and contract followed in the afternoon. Mrs. Haddon will give her other two parties on Thursday and Saturday of this week.

Nursery Aid Club Has Luncheon

Although Mrs. James Irvine, their leader, is still away in the north, members of the Day Nursery Assistance club are nevertheless enjoying the hospitality of her lovely home on Myford road at their semi-monthly meeting dates.

Yesterday, 23 of them gathered for a prettily appointed luncheon at the two tables, one in the dining room and the other in the adjoining sunroom. Calengulas in crystal bowls made bright spots of color in the center arrangements, which were enhanced by artistic little Japanese figures in gay contrast to the sand-colored linen doilies.

Five substitutes shared the day with the club members, filling out five tables for the afternoon's contract games, two of the members departing after the luncheon. Those playing in the substitute list were Mrs. M. B. Wellington, Mrs. Howard Rapp, Mrs. John McKittrick, Mrs. Richard Couden, and Mrs. L. D. Coffing.

The club will meet again next Monday, resuming its regular meetings on the first and third Monday afternoons of the month. Mrs. Irvine, the leader, is expected home early in March.

MRS. MITCHELL IS HOSTESS TO PAST HEADS

The Eastern Star matrons with whom she was associated during her own term of office in the Santa Ana organization in 1929 were entertained at a three-course luncheon last week by Mrs. Charles Mitchell at her home, 309 South Main street.

Silvered sprays of coneflowers and slim red tapers in cellophane holders were set at intervals in her living room, and on the luncheon table, with valentine place-cards further enhancing the decorations scheme.

The afternoon was spent at needwork and pleasant reminiscing about their happy year together. Guests of Mrs. Mitchell were Mrs. Harry Kelly of Los Angeles, Mrs. William Johnson of Yorba Linda, Mrs. Walter Smalley and Mrs. Walter Schütz of Fullerton, Mrs. Ben Day of Garden Grove, Mrs. Walter Wright and Mrs. H. T. Trueblood of Santa Ana, and the latter's house guest, Mrs. William Wharton of Santa Monica.

PRETTY TEA AT VANDERMAST HOME

Mrs. Asa Vandermast of 425 Birch street invited a few friends for an informal tea at her home Tuesday afternoon, spending the hours in chat and needwork until tea time when the hostess served delicious refreshments.

The friends who gathered for the tea were Mrs. Mary Van Wyk and her sister, Mrs. J. W. T. Paska of Three Oaks, Mich., Mrs. J. J. Jacobs, the Misses Cynthia and Elizabeth Schelkamp, Mrs. Walter Prince, and Mrs. Walter Vandermast, the latter two the daughter and daughter-in-law of the hostess.

MARY STODDARD

Another Young Girl Says She Loves a Married Man and Wants Advice

By MARY STODDARD

Youth can be very adorable, but youth can also be cruel and selfish. Just why Sally wrote me, I cannot quite understand, because she is in love with a married man and, if she reads my column, she should at least know by heart what my opinion is on such a problem. I will save further comment until tomorrow. She says: Dear Miss Stoddard: I am in love with a married man! I put my problem like that because there is no clearer way of stating it. But let me tell you the facts.

I am not yet out of my teens. This man with whom I am in love is nine years my senior. We met last summer at a party where I also met his wife for the first time.

"Jim," we shall call him, is a very likeable person. He has a good word for everyone and I seldom have seen him when he did not have a smile on his face.

The first night we met I felt as though I had known him all my life. Months passed and I saw him occasionally. I considered him merely a good friend until one evening he called and asked me for a date. I refused politely, but found myself thinking of him continually after that.

It's a long story, but after some time I started going around with him. It was "Jim" in fun at first. We thought. One night he told me he was in love with me. That's the whole problem, or perhaps it is only half of it.

Now there are those who will say that he is giving me a "good line" and posing as a "misunderstood husband," and as I am young I will readily fall for it. They might also say that he probably has a very fine wife.

Yes, he has a very fine wife and a lovely little boy. His wife is young and attractive. She does not smoke or drink. She cares for his child and home. "Jim" has never said a word against his wife, except that he does not love her any more. Whether she still loves him or not, I do not know.

However, I do know that it is their child that has kept them together this long. She, his wife, has threatened to leave him many times, but as yet has done nothing about it. He says he will gladly give her a divorce when and if she does leave, but he does not feel he would be much of a man if he left her and the baby, which she will not give up, to shift for themselves.

I know this, too, Miss Stoddard, that there are those who will say I am the vamp type, a "play girl," "husband snatcher," "double-crosser" and a hundred other things. I am not perfect I know, and I am not handing myself laurels, but I doubt if I am any of those.

I have fought against falling in love with "Jim." I have spent weeks out of town in an effort to forget him. I have refused to talk to him when he called me on the telephone. I have sought the company of other young men nearer my own age and who are not married. I have walked the streets in search of a job in order to have something to occupy my mind. All these to no avail.

My problem, as I have related it to you, is just another one of those things in the cycle of life. Any advice you give will gladly be accepted and I can take any slams with my chin up. Thanks, to you, is just another one of

Hostess Uses Valentine Motif

Vivid nandina leaves and their scarlet berries carried out the valentine decoration scheme which Mrs. Z. B. West used last night when she and Mr. West entertained their dinner bridge club, and the dainty valentines at each dinner place were repeated again in the little red hearts at each bridge table. Tall red tapers in crystal holders added still further color to the effect.

In the absence of Mr. and Mrs. James Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Swales, R. C. Holles and Mrs. S. J. Haddon, Mrs. West had invited the Lloyd Chenoweths, Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs, the Franklins Wests, and Mrs. H. T. Dunning to substitute. Mrs. Franklins West, Mrs. Howard Timmons and Mr. Z. B. West, assisted the hostess during the evening.

Members enjoying the delicious dinner course and evening of contract included Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chandler, Lt. Comm. and Mrs. Irwin Landis, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timmons, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Warner, and the Z. B. Wests.

DELTA CHI SIGMA PLAN SPRING DANCE

Delta Chi Sigma members made plans for their spring sports dance last night when they gathered for a Valentine social at the home of Mrs. Julien Lecevaun on Talbert Road, playing games of hearts and discussing coming events in the sorority calendar.

The dance, to be staged March 20, is to have Huntington Beach Memorial hall as the setting, and everyone is invited to join in the evening's festivities which will start at 9 o'clock. Bids may be secured from any member of the sorority or at the door that night.

After the heart games last night, in which Miss Lorene Shippe and Miss Carol Smith won the prizes, little guest towels made by their hostess, a dainty buffet supper was served. Mrs. William Rasmussen (Lucille Crawford) assisting her sister.

Reports were made of the installation of two new chapters into Delta Chi Sigma organization, Alpha Kappa in Hollywood on January 31, and Alpha Lambda in San Francisco last Saturday. Miss Carol Smith, president of the local chapter, attended and participated in both ceremonies, and several of the other members also attended the Los Angeles meeting which was held at the Women's Athletic club. Those accompanying Miss Smith were the Misses Martha Sharpley, Lorene Shippe, Vivian White, Frances Roberts, Ruth Souder, and Mrs. Lloyd Mander-scheid.

Congress and the Courts

LONG and careful consideration should be given by congress to President Roosevelt's proposal to change the federal judiciary.

For although the President's plan would correct many admitted faults in the national system of courts—such as delays and congestion—it also would result in packing the supreme bench with supporters of the New Deal.

In fact, this latter result sticks out like a sore thumb
—so much so that the President can be justifiably accused of trying to usurp power and fashion the judiciary to fit his personal political ideas.

The important thing is that congress go into this debate with open eyes, entirely unblinded by the adroitness and political skill of Mr. Roosevelt and with a mind of its own.

The legislators may see eye to eye with the President, they may decide not to go so far, or they may possibly decide to go farther.

In any event, they should not take hasty, emotional action.

For the outcome will mean much to the future of this country which is striving so hard to meet complex social and economic problems that may in the future put an even greater strain on democratic processes.

Sensible Water Conservation

BESIDES protecting Santa Ana's north residential section from what might have been a destructive flood, the big dam up Santiago creek did another good job in the recent storm. It saved some 10,000 acre feet of water which otherwise would have wasted into the ocean.

This large supply, added to the total already on hand, runs the reserve behind the dam up to nearly 14,000 acre feet, and more water is still pouring in.

How long this new big lake will supply the irrigable lands below, no one can say with accuracy. It depends upon the draw made for agricultural purposes. It might be months; it might be several years.

But the whole point is: The Irvine company and the Carpenter-Serrano Irrigation district, which built the massive structure, have given an outstanding example of their good judgment in flood control and water conservation.

Similar dams on the Santa Ana river and its tributaries would save the thousands of acre feet of water which are now rushing past us into the sea to become valueless for domestic and farming purposes.

Orange county can show its good judgment by approving the Santa Ana river flood control and water conservation project.

Why Adult Education Pays

PROOF of the value of adult education is so widespread, that it may seem like redundancy to cite another case
—but here is a letter which Mrs. Golden Weston, director of the adult education department, received from a student:

Dear Mrs. Weston:
I studied Home Hygiene and Nursing last year. That course has certainly helped me a great deal. Because I have raised several children I knew what to do in many cases of minor illness, but how to do them was a different matter, and we had to call a nurse many times. This past year I have been able, under direction of the doctor, to take entire care of my family. This past month has laid all four members of my family low with "flu" and bronchitis, but I have been able to care for them myself and as we are now living 20 miles from town, it has been a comfort as well as a financial benefit.

This course has repaid me many times for the time spent at the evening school and I hope more and more people will avail themselves of the opportunity.

Cordially yours,
An Evening School Student.

There are many subjects available for study at evening school besides the one referred to in the letter.
Everyone of them will pay dividends in entertainment and service if you use it right.

Keep a Child in Mind!

ONE OUT of every three persons under legal age in California will be killed or injured in automobile accidents if the present rate of casualties continues!

Frank N. Belgrano, former national commander of the American Legion, points out this statistical fact in a radio talk. What a heart-sickening prospect!

Listen to this suggested remedy, not only for the slaughter of innocents but for the protection of adults as well:

"If each of us, every day, every hour, every minute, would drive with a child in mind—any child—determined to be so careful, so alert as to endanger no little life—then we would safeguard every one; adults afoot or in other cars, even ourselves."

It's a method that would help if all drivers would heed
it. Will you try it?

Funny how a world can lack vision and yet develop television at the same time.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

The success of Jack Dempsey in the role of a restaurateur is developing what diners out call California flower corners. Jack occupies one. And the other three are contiguous to his one-stored site. Still another on a corner a block away is also in the hands of a ring hero.

Along with the flood of hamburger, Taj Mahals clustering about Dempsey's came other champions figuratively to mop up some of the gastronomic gravy.
On the corner south, Mickey Walker dispenses both food, liquor and his autograph in the glow of glittering signs.

On one corner opposite Dempsey, Tony Canzoneri has taken on a partnership in a place to be called Canzoneri's. He, like Dempsey, will be the front man, greeting customers and awing the ladies with his gargoyle face, scarred by many valiant fistic battles.

And James Braddock, the newest champion, is to tie in with the fighting Brillat-Savarins with a gaudy temple where he, too, will be high priest of the entrance ropes. Then to complete the four-cornered zone the glossy ex-champion Benny Leonard is angling for a site for a glittering bistro.

Berton Braley is the most prolific of the modern minnesingers.
And has been for 25 years. One of his notable poetical achievements was to win a world series ball game play by play by verse telegraphed in the same manner as news reports. He begins work in the morning bath, having pad and pencil handy to jot down wandering lines that may swim into his ken. His pockets are filled with scratch pads on which he will dash off a madrigal or so wherever he may be. I used to be one of a weekly gang of pool players that included Braley, and between shots he was usually wooing the muse. When a poem is finished, he keeps it going the rounds until sold. Sometimes it has taken two years, but in the end he usually gets his editor.

Then the top flight industrialist —known in many magazine shops under the pseudonym—who is certainly a case. He has been trying to land his jingles for more than ten years. So far his only acceptance has been a Christmas roundelay printed in his own house organ. Considered a two-fisted desk pounder, his effusions are about the gooiest that go the rounds.

The sudden passing of Dave Freedman, some weeks ago, reminded me most celebrated of the ghost writers. Also a top ring gag and script writer. From his anonymity, he made several rotatable bow takers famous and added to the celebrity of many more. He was a writer of marked talents in the new field of radio as well as for prints. I think he was a philosophic poet in his first short story in which he had a character say: "What is love?"
A cigar. The brighter it burns the quicker it's ashes. What is marriage? The ash tray. But Freedman, who came up from the Ghetto, did not care much for personal acclaim. He did not mind letting others take credit for his artistry but he could never conceal his contempt for them. He made a fortune in his brief whirl, lived like a Rajah and died broke.

About the only familiar spot left along the porticoed shopping stretch of the rue de Rivoli, returning travelers say, is Smith's quaint and venerable English book shop on the rue Cambon corner. Smith's remains as it has for 30 years, suggesting in the heart of Paris the ivied somnolence of a village shop in Surrey.
The clerks are elderly high nosed star boarder types found in the Bloomsbury paying-guest houses.
And they permit one to prowl—a gesture American book mongers have not acquired. Upstairs is a tacky tea room with Cockney waitresses where one may—in France of all places—partake of the tastiest ice cream, a possible exception is our own Schrafft's coffee flavor, in the world. Somerset Maugham and Frank Crowninshield always go to Smith's for tea and it was the locale for one of Leonard Merrick's love-on-the-boulevard canticles. All book shops should have the feeling that nothing matters very much save the books. That is the feeling at Smith's and it's why, perhaps, it has survived.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—If the Roosevelt proposal for increasing the size of the supreme court passes congress, here is the best inside estimate—based upon the opinions of their associates—as to which of the "nine old men" will resign.

Chief Justice Hughes—Will resign immediately. He reaches the age of 75 on April 11, and he has already put himself on record in his own book that it is highly doubtful whether a supreme court justice should serve after that age.
Justice Brandeis—Will also resign. Brandeis is 80 years old and has been in failing health for some time. More important, however, is Brandeis' conviction that he should not be a controversial issue. He would rather eliminate himself from the picture.

Justice Van Devanter—Will also retire. He will be 78 years old on April 17 and he has been rather fed up on the whole court controversy for some time. He planned to resign during the last days of the Hoover administration, but determined to stick it out after Roosevelt was elected. Van Devanter once was a member of the Republican national committee, and sat in on Republican conferences affecting Wyoming, his home state, even after his appointment to the supreme court.
Justice Sutherland—Also will probably retire. He will be 75 on March 25, is a pronounced hyper-chondriac, is always talking about himself and his medicine, and like Van Devanter planned to retire at the end of the Hoover administration. He was a member of the Republican national committee from Utah.

MOREYNOLDS STAYS

Justice McReynolds—Probably will remain, although celebrating his seventy-fifth birthday last week. He remains grim and determined in all his opposition to New Deal legislation. McReynolds has considered retiring, but those around him think he will remain.
Justice Butler—Also is almost certain to remain unless all of the conservative justices decide upon a mutual withdrawal as a rebuff to the President. Butler will be 71 on St. Patrick's day, is almost as staunchly opposed to New Deal legislation as McReynolds, and has a determination which is hard to shake.

Justice Roberts—An unknown quantity, but those who know him best think he will resign, make an issue of the President's action and keep himself free, if events break right, to run for the Republican nomination in 1940. He is the youngest member of the court, only 62 on May 2, is in excellent health, and has entertained Presidential ambitions.

Justice Stone—Also a relatively young member of the court—he is 65—is expected to remain. He is in sympathy with the President's policies.

Justice Cardozo—Also is sympathy with the New Deal, is expected to remain, although he may have to retire because of ill health.
He has been suffering from a bad heart for some time. He is 67 years old.

TROTSKY SUIT

Leon Trotsky, exiled Bolshevik leader, plans to bring a libel suit against a well-known Communist newspaper in New York for calling him a "assassin."

The strategy is not so much to collect damages, but to give a complete public airing to Trotsky's side of the recent Moscow treason trials. Trotsky wants to do this through the medium of an American court.

WALLY WHISKY

When the P. and D. Liquor company of Peoria, Ill., attempted to sell a bourbon labeled "Wally Whisky—Fit for a King," the Federal Alcohol Control administration rejected the label on the ground that it used a name that might be taken for that of a prominent person, without showing assurance that that person actually indorsed the whisky.

FLOOD PREVENTION

No one around the White House is shouting about it for the moment, but the present flood may in the long run be almost as disastrous to some of the big power companies as it is at present to the thousands along the river banks.

For the President plans to drive for a system of flood prevention by dams and reservoirs. And government dams and reservoirs mean one very definite by-product —government-generated electricity.

In fact, the President has already sent to congress the report of the national resources committee advocating an expenditure of five billions for dams and reservoirs on a six-year basis.
These dams are to be built in a score of states, but especially in Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York, the very heart of the private utility empire. In other words, small-scale TVA's will be dotted all over the greatest industrial area in the country.

LEEVE BREAKDOWN

The President's purpose is not primarily competition with the private power companies. That is incidental. The main purpose is flood prevention.

However, there is a definite feeling that if it had not been for the lobbying of the power companies during earlier administrations, floods like this one would have been prevented.

Private utilities bitterly opposed flood control by dams and reservoirs, maintained that the levee system was sufficient. Naturally they knew that the erection of government dams meant the generation of government power.

But now the natural resources committee claims that the levee system is antiquated.

NOTE—To bolster the argument for a system of flood control by dams is the fact that the TVA dams held back the flood waters of the Tennessee river.

OUR FATAL TRAFFIC

To the Editor: Permit me a few lines on drunk driving. First let me quote Sen. Westover on a bill he has offered in the legislature in regard to drunk driving.
The bill provides that in event a person is injured by someone driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor the automobile shall be confiscated by the state and the driver shall lose his license forever.

The bill may sound pretty strong, but when one puts that punishment up against the number of people in this state killed in 1936, it's not too much.

Just a few days ago I read in The Journal where a man got a six months suspended sentence for killing a man with his car.

To try to eliminate the drunk driver is impossible as long as liquor is a legal commodity. So if we get rid of drunk driving we first must remove the cause.

I just read that Raymond Cato, chief of the highway patrol, is trying to have misleading signs removed from the highways. I would like to ask Mr. Cato to put the same effort behind Sen. West-over's bill.

If a person who thinks it is o.k. to drink liquor and drive, goes out Sunday for a drive and kills a man, a woman, a child and children killed, surely all he can do is pull himself out of what is left of car and family and tell said drunk driver:

"I am surely sorry I got in your way. This is no fault of yours. I drink, too, so don't feel bad about the wreck. Goodbye—see you next time."

Why not have all automobile traffic under federal control? All 48 states having the same license, same signals and same taxes.
I don't care who answers this letter through the columns of The Journal as I have plenty more to follow.

C. E. RIDER.

WANTS SECRET POLICE

To the Editor: About the swell-est idea I have heard of in a long time is Councilman Layton's idea of a secret traffic police for Santa Ana. The only suggestion I would like to make is why can't the board of supervisors go ahead and make it countywide?

I would be only too glad to serve on any such organization, without pay, merely for the satisfaction of seeing the law enforced in regard to traffic violations. One of the most dangerous violations is the jumping of boulevard stops. Near my home there is a main arterial, protected by boulevard stops and it is amazing to see the number of motorists who pay not the slightest heed to these signs. We can't have a traffic officer at every boulevard stop. If a private citizen felt that it was his privilege and duty to report such infractions of the rules, a decrease in accidents would certainly be noted.

I say, more power to the secret traffic police, only make it county-wide instead of just for the city of Santa Ana.

One Man's Opinion

By R. F. PAINE

Unprecedented in the annals of female endeavor is the attitude of Miss Hurlbut of Excelsior Springs, Mo., whose admirer, Harold Hurlbut, had paddled himself to a radiator of the lady's apartment and declares he will sit there until she agrees to marry him.

"I'm not ready to marry Harold," calmly advises Miss Hurlbut,
"although I love him," and she is only 20 years old. What wisdom, in these times, in a mere girl!

What a contrast to the thousands of cases wherein the maiden is too mighty ready! Let Harold sit, young lady, until his pants wear through, if necessary. He may demonstrate true, lasting love, if his pants hold out. He may exhibit his real temperament and reaction to wifely duties. Like-enough, he will be amenable to confinement to the radiator, when, after the honeymoon, he yearns for too many "nights out."

One of the great social weaknesses is that, too, too few of our would-be bridegrooms are not fastened to radiators and compelled to sit until revealing what they really are and what the prospects in being bound to them in the holy padocks of matrimony.

Skinny Skrabbles

Around and About Town

With
C. F.
(SKIRVIN)

About all the items I could find Monday were incidents of the storm. Not many of them funny, either. When you have your money invested in a citrus grove located in the path of a river likely to overflow its banks any time, it takes more than a lullaby to put you to sleep. And if you have a basement packed with merchandise, and the water is peeking around the corner, that isn't such a comfortable position to be in.
But when you take a look at the Mississippi and Ohio flood areas, and compare it with what we have,
well, our troubles were little ones.

Just as long as we are off the Red Cross relief list our flood is trivial.

The country editor offers me a paragraph for the column which is a little risqué, and too hot for him to handle. Well, I still have a family to look after. But it only goes to prove a contention that I have held for a long, long time—that the best items are the ones the newspaper can't use.

Along the water front meant any old place between Santa Ana and San Diego.

The Santa Ana river was boiling along Saturday night and all day Sunday. Ranchers cast an apprehensive look at its turbulent waters and visualized what it might do to citrus acreage if the river levee failed to hold. But it did hold, and therefore a lot of ranchers are thankful, at least in that particular area.

As a precautionary measure I have made application for the boat in the Chet Dale insurance office. It's a little risky to depend upon forecasts. The weather man can tell us about rain, but let how much. So when you need a boat you need it. Please do not send in requests for emergency transportation. The accomodations are limited to a single individual, and he can't be overweight.

And if the rain had continued another 24 hours many ranchers would have been looking where their groves were instead of where they are.

If there isn't any salvage to speak of from frozen fruit, as the federal agricultural department believes, good fruit can stick its chin out a little farther. A good orange will be an aristocrat this season in the fruit market. And it will probably take an aristocrat to appreciate it.

I say, old chap, we have had some dripping weather.

It takes more than a flood to discourage a Santa Anita race fan.
When I saw a lady I found a patron looking over the fence. On Monday morning getting ready to "pick 'em" just as though a prolonged drought had been in existence.

Dr. Huston rowed in from Costa
Mesa Monday.

And the river just kept rollin' along, taking with it a lot of top soil but, thank Heaven, left the orange trees. Jumping from frost to flood, a lady I found the laundry, are incidents in the lives of not and women which lead to a lot of annoyances, but all repairable and rather inconsequential in their material loss. Property can be repaired. But a life can be lost but once.

Smart cafe owner employs a chef whose ponderosity exceeds my avoirdupois by something under a ton. The chef makes occasional appearances, and customers open their eyes wider than usual. Of course I wouldn't for the world intimate an ulterior purpose on the part of the proprietor, but I'm ready to admit it's a good publicity stunt. My chance of ever being employed as a chef is about 1000 to zero.

One of those incidents, as unusual as it is incredible, occurred to Bob Davis, en route home from Banning during the storm. Bob insists that he was just ahead of the rain all the way home, but it was a narrow escape. The rear of the car was soaked but the front as dry as Maine in prohibition days. Oh, yes, I almost forgot to state that Bob is a former newspaper man.

Visitor comes back from the Rialto district and hands me a lemon as mushy as a sponge. In spite of the generally encountered statement that there has been no frost damage, my confidence in the report is slipping.

An observation: Friend comes in to tell me that during a walk of about six blocks in the downtown area he counted 26 cars with 1936 license plates. Well, it wasn't the fault of the highway patrol.
They cried their eyes out imploring owners
